Ferry Plane Fall Kills 22, Including Capt. Mackey

SECOND AIRCRAFT DISASTER IN WEEK'S TIME CAUSES DEATHS OF FLYERS ASSISTING BRITAIN

Mackey, 31, Appeared At Shows Here

Aviator Killed In Ferry
Crash Acquainted With
Circleville Men

Captain Joe C. Mackey, 31, who was killed Thursday near London, England, in the crash of an English ferry plane, was a native of Columbus and was widely acquainted in Circleville where he had appeared several times as a feature of Air Day. Mackey's last visit here was about five years ago when the air show was conducted on the Walter Goodman farm in Pickaway Township.

Mackey was a personal friend of Durward Dowden, Howard Stevenson, Tom A. Renick and the late Forrest Valentine, all of whom were active in the Circleville chapter of the National Aeronautic Association several years ago.

Despite reports to the contrary that he and his parents had once lived in Circleville, Mr. Dowden said Friday that Mackey had never told him that he had resided here, but had said that his mother, Mrs. B. C. Mackey of Columbus, had friends in the city.

The aviator was married and father of a seven year old son, his family living in Kansas City, Mo.

Famous as Stunter

Mackey was one of the nation's best known stunt flyers, his career gaining him the Freddie Lund trophy for precision aerobatics and a medal in Paris.

Only a few months ago, the famous flyer escaped death in a crash on the coast of Newfoundland when piloting a Canadian government plane. His three companions, one of whom was Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, were killed.

Captain Mackey began flying at Cleveland airport in 1927 and soon was one of the nation's best known stunt flyers. He had barnstormed over the country in a special taper-wing Waco biplane, being stellar performer at several air shows.

A veteran of more than 3,500 hours of flying, Mackey flew in practically every major air show in the United States from 1934 to 1939 and competed in Bendix and Thompson Trophy races at Cleveland's National Air Races.

He returned to active duty in the Army Air Corps Reserve about three years ago and was an instructor at Kelly Field, Tex., Air Corps Training Center, in aerobatics and advanced flying.

In the summer of 1939, Mackey resigned his Air Corps Commission to fly one of Col. Roscoe Turner's ships in the Thompson Trophy race and placed sixth. He was in business for several months

Purvis, Purchasing Agent For Isle Empire, Victim

LONDON, Aug. 15—Twenty-two men, including the Rt. Hon. Arthur Purvis, director general of the British Purchasing Commission in the United States, were killed last night in this week's second crash of trans-Atlantic ferry planes.

Capt. Joseph Creighton Mackey, 31-year-old Kansas City pilot, also lost his life in the accident.

Errol Wellington Watson of Los Angeles, Cal., was extricated alive from the wreckage, but died of burns in a hospital during the night.

Purvis and the other victims were taking off from a British airport, the Air Ministry announced today, en route to Canada. The other men in the wrecked plane were pilots engaged in ferrying American-built planes back to Britain.

Another 22 pilots, seven of them Americans, were killed Sunday when a ferry plane smashed into a hillside in England.

Capt. Harold Balfour, undersecretary for air, flew to the scene of the accident with a staff of investigators. A thorough probe was planned, since the two accidents have robbed Britain of more than two-score of her best ferry pilots.

Capt. Mackey was the sole survivor of the smash-up in Newfoundland last February in which Sir Frederick Banting, famed discoverer of insulin, was killed.

Appeared To Be Clear

The ill-fated ferry plane was taking off for the United States and appeared to be rising clear when it suddenly began losing height.

It struck the edge of a raised highway on the fringe of the airport, crashed through a fence, and hurtled into a field.

MR. SMITH WOULD OUST PRESIDENT FOR HIS ACTION

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15—A promise to impeach President Roosevelt "if he pulls just two or three more deals like those of last week," today was left with almost 3,000 people by Gerald K. Smith, chairman of the "Committee of 1,000,000," who spoke last night in Public Music Hall.

President Roosevelt made a "deal" with King George and Queen Elizabeth "while they ate hot dogs at Hyde Park," Smith said, denouncing Roosevelt's conference at sea with Winston Churchill.

"We'll impeach Franklin D. Roosevelt for a couple more deals like that," Smith shouted. "We won't wait for 1944."

UNOFFICIAL AND OFFICIAL ELECTION RETURNS SAME

No change will be made in the Primary election returns, election board officials announced Friday, reporting that the official returns were the same as the unofficial announced immediately after the election.

Candidates Friday were filing their expense accounts with the elections board. Mayor W. B. Cady's total amount was $97.33. Expenses of A. J. Lyle, Republican candidate for mayor, were $4.50 and for Joseph W. Adkins, Democratic candidate for solicitor, $3.50, expenses of both candidates representing the necessary filing fee. Neither Lyle nor Adkins was opposed in the Primary.

Deadline for filing expense accounts with the elections board will be August 22 at 6:30 p. m.

President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill "Somewhere At Sea"

CAPITAL ASKS TWO QUESTIONS OF IMPORTANCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—The big question in political and diplomatic quarters in Washington today is:

What did President Roosevelt promise British Prime Minister Winston Churchill in return for the renunciation of British imperialism that was implied in the joint declaration of Anglo-American world policy?

Diplomatic observers, especially, doubted that Churchill, a life long imperialist, agreed to renounce in advance all territorial or economic advantages the British Empire might gain from a victory in this war unless he received something very promising from President Roosevelt.

The two questions foremost in the minds of political and diplomatic observers were:

1—Did the President promise Churchill that this country would enter the war if that step should be found necessary to save Great Britain?

2—Did the President commit the United States to participation in another League of Nations after this war is over?

Official sources profess that they do not know what, if anything the President may have promised Churchill. Privately, most of them doubt that the President made any definite commitment.

PIGEON CLUB ORGANIZES BY ELECTING OFFICERS

A Pigeon Club for Circleville was organized Thursday night when pigeon fans met at the home of Thomas Lake, 517 Elm Avenue. Mr. Lake was elected president; Ed Wallace, vice-president; and Dr. A. D. Blackburn, secretary-treasurer, of the club.

The club has ten charter members. Besides the officers they are Jack Lake, Elm Avenue; Walter Pickett, East Mound Street; James Pickett, East Mound Street; William H. Niles Jr., West Mill Street; Glen Jones, West Ohio Street; Edward Blum, Watt Street; and Paul Johnson, Northridge Road.

During the meeting the club made plans to enter an exhibit in the Pumpkin Show this year. Complete plans for Pumpkin Show participation will be made at the club's next meeting September 18.

NEW POLIO CASES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—The first case of infantile paralysis in Allen County was among the five new cases reported today to State Health Director R. H. Markwith, which brought to 106 the number of cases reported this year.

THE two heads of the greatest democratic nations on earth, President Franklin Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, are pictured during their historic rendezvous which was held "somewhere in the North Atlantic." A sensational development of the conference was the adoption of an eight-point program of general war aims expressing a determination to stamp out German tyranny.

UKRAINE WAR NEAR END, NAZIS CLAIM

BERLIN, Aug. 15—New tactics in warfare, differing widely from the blitz strategy of previous campaigns, have nearly completed the conquest of the rich Ukraine, German military officials said today. Through these tactics—still a secret—the Germans have saved most of the resources of the coveted land and trapped untold thousands of Russian troops, according to the Nazis.

Already, it was indicated, the Germans are planning to sweep across the Dnieper River towards the Volga, in a drive which would give the Nazis easy access to the oil fields of Iran.

Military officials said that one strong Soviet force had already been "annihilated" in the Ukraine. Twenty thousand prisoners were taken, it was said, with 32 tanks, 85 field guns and an armored train either captured or destroyed.

Latest advices said that Chancellor Hitler's personally-directed moves rapidly are mastering the Ukraine, sweeping that wealthy industrial, mining, and grain region into the hands of the Nazi war machine and cracking Josef Stalin's crack armies inside the great bend of the Dnieper River.

To Control Black Sea

Occupation of the province was said to be progressing systematically all the way to the Dnieper, with the German peninsula already in the war zone, foreshadowing early Nazi control of the Black Sea.

Odessa, the major Russian grain port, and Nikolaev, to the northeast, were under siege, with the Nazis biding their time in order to avert destruction of the cities through frontal attacks.

German military authorities said that Kiev itself no longer is militarily important, as the Red defenses have collapsed within the bow of the Dnieper, leaving the capture of the Ukrainian metropolis a matter for the rear guard to handle.

Military officials said that the conquest of the Ukraine is "militarily unique."

The victory in the productive Russian southwest was "achieved through singular operations," they said, "on the basis of a plan which in the future will be revealed as a new type of tactical warfare."

Ukraine Spared

Evidently the German plan was to break up the main Soviet armies in the western sections of Russia and to spare the Ukraine as a producing center by knock-out thrusts before the Red troops could rally and reassemble for defense, or systematically lay the country waste.

This scheme, according to military officials, succeeded.

Now it is believed in Berlin that

WOMEN HURT AS AUTOS COLLIDE IN COURT STREET

Collision of two cars in South Court Street Friday morning at 11:30 sent one woman to Berger Hospital for treatment and brought minor cuts and bruises to another.

Taken to the hospital by Patrolman Alva Shasteen was Mrs. Norma E. Ware, Spargursville Route 1, Pike County, who was released by hospital authorities after being treated for a cut over the nose.

Occupants of the other car were Mrs. Laura King, 148 West High Street, driver, and Mrs. John Boggs, 133 West Union Street. Mrs. Boggs received slight cuts and bruises when the right front door of the car crushed in against her, pinning her to the seat. Both Mrs. King and Mrs. Boggs were taken home by John Kerns of Circleville, a passerby.

Patrolman Shasteen said the two Circleville women had stopped at a South Court Street vegetable stand to make a purchase and after getting back into the car, Mrs. King had attempted to make a U-turn in the middle of the street. She told Shasteen that she did not see the Ware car approaching from the south.

The Spargursville car struck that of Mrs. King along the right side, damaging both cars, the right side of Mrs. King's car and the front end of the Ware car. Both cars are insured.

The accident happened between Logan and Town Streets.

ROUTE 23 RAID PLACES CHILLICOTHEAN IN COURT

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 15—Charges of exhibiting gambling devices for gain have been filed against Ray Walley, 145 East Main Street, Chillicothe. He will be arraigned before Squire Walter S. Barrett.

Walley was arrested Thursday by Deputy Sheriff C. J. Vincent in a raid on a small filling station north of the Seven Seas Night Club on U. S. Route 23. More than a truckload of gambling devices were confiscated, including a nickel cigarette machine, three counter dice games and a crap game table.

Penalty under the state anti-gambling code ranges from $50 to $500 and imprisonment from 10 days to 90 days.

MICROMETERS FOUND

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15—Recovery of 41 of several hundred micrometers stolen from the Majestic and Central Tool and Machine Companies in Detroit was reported today by Cleveland police from 11 different pawnshops.

BRITISH EXECUTE FIRST GERMAN PARACHUTE SPY CAUGHT IN LONDON AREA

LONDON, Aug. 15—Shots rattling within the historic walls of the grim tower of London at dawn today brought a speedy end to the spy career of Josef Jakobs, the first German parachutist spy to be executed in England.

Jakobs, whose espionage attempts were nipped after only 12 hours, was marched before the firing squad within sight of the blood-stained ground where Anne Boleyn and Lady Jane Gray lost their heads.

A 43-year-old non-commissioned officer, and member of the German Army Meteorological Service, Jakobs, a native of Luxembourg, was dropped out of the skies in the London area.

British home guardsmen caught the spy 12 hours after he landed—presumably through his equipment before he was able to dispose of it.

NAZIS RIDICULE CONFAB AT SEA

Eighth Point Of Program Hit; "Come And Take Arms," Says Reich

BERLIN, Aug. 15—"If you want to disarm us, come on over here and take our guns away—if you dare!"

This was the challenge hurled by the Wilhelmstrasse at President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill today as the German press screamed defiance to the so-called Anglo-American "propaganda bluff."

As expected, the German government seized on the eighth and last point of the Roosevelt-Churchill 8-point program, which calls for disarmament of alleged aggressors. Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen termed the program a "complete flop"—using just that American colloquialism—and added:

"It is a colossal blunder."

"If you, Roosevelt, or you, Churchill, want to disarm us, come over here and do it, if you dare. Take our weapons away from us—if you can."

"We welcome the frankness of the American President and the English prime minister."

TALK OF BRITISH INVASION HEARD IN ISLES AGAIN

LONDON, Aug. 15—Talk of a British counter-invasion of the European continent was revived today as this country continued to hail jubilantly word of the sea meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

All quarters were convinced that results of the dramatic session went far beyond the announced eight-point Anglo-American peace aims.

One of the main points of discussion, it was assumed, was acceleration of assistance for the Soviet Union.

Government authorities continued to throw cold water on hopes of the man in the street that the British might take the initiative against Germany by land in the near future. This country, it was insisted, must continue to wage a defensive war for the time being.

Nevertheless the London News Chronicle revived speculation regarding a possible British land blow. London observers, the paper said, "Believe that if the British land on the continent, it will probably be at Murmansk or Archangel."

YOUTHS CLASSIFIED FOR EARLY CALL INTO ARMY

Selective Service board Thursday night finished tentative classifications on the 141 21-year-old registrants who registered for military service on July 1.

Eighty-seven of the group were placed tentatively in Class 1-A, and 12 have been sent notices to appear for physical examination beginning next Monday.

Those who will be examined are the registrants whose order numbers are at the top of the new registration list. They may be called into service on the next quota.

MIGHTY FORCE OF AUSTRALIANS READY FOR WAR

Largest Convoy Hauls Men
To New Danger Zone In
Eastern Region

JAP ACTIVITY WATCHED

Tough Anzacs, Trained For
Hard Fighting, Guard
Important Zone

SINGAPORE, Aug. 15—

The largest convoy ever to reach Singapore arrived at this Far Eastern military, naval and air base today, bringing thousands of troops and powerful weapons from Australia.

It was the third such detachment to reach Singapore since the Far Eastern crisis arose, and its size and mobility exceeded anything ever seen at this port.

Tough Anzac troops, trained by the same methods that won laurels for Australians and New Zealanders in the tough battle of Libya and in Syria, were landed by the thousands.

The equipment, modern and deadly, included Bren gun carriers, swift little vehicles which have been used with amazing success in the African and Near Eastern campaign, trucks, planes and anti-tank guns. Complete ambulance units also were included.

Arrival of the convoy, hard on the heels of the recent shipments of Anglo-Indian forces to this important stronghold, was seen by official circles as indicative of the Allies' determination to make Singapore their first line of defense in the Pacific.

The new contingent apparently was dispatched soon after the Japanese moved into Indo-China under the Vichy "defense deal" which precipitated the greatest crisis to date in the vital, fabulously rich southern Pacific.

Japs on Border

And as they disembarked, while constantly patrolling warplanes roared overhead on a never-ending patrol of the vital near eastern border, the Japanese reportedly were taking up positions on the border between Indo-China and Thailand.

At the same time, the Tokyo press—as it has for almost a fortnight—continued its hue and cry against alleged "encirclement" by the A-B-C-D (American-British-Chinese-Dutch) front in the Far East.

Earlier detachments which arrived in Singapore reportedly have been moved east and north along the vital areas which Britain would have to defend should the ever-smouldering Far Eastern crisis suddenly explode.

Just how far the Allies have gone in their fighting and concerted defense drive to make Singapore the Gibraltar of the Pacific is not known, of course, and is due to remain a military secret for a long, long time.

But the reinforcements which have streamed into this port have

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARDS TOLD TO KEEP TEACHERS

County School Superintendent George McDowell said Friday that notices had been sent to school boards in the county asking them to retain all teachers after Friday in an effort to prevent last-minute vacancies in any of the schools.

Mr. McDowell said the county's teaching staff should be completed at board meetings next Monday and Tuesday nights.

Jackson Township board of education Thursday night hired its sixth new teacher for 1941-42, completing its teaching staff for the coming school year.

Robert D. Latta, Corning, Perry County, was employed to teach history, industrial arts and social science in the high school. Mr. Latta has had four years' training at Ohio University and four years' teaching experience in the Corning schools.

Two State Liquor Office Workers Beaten Without Any Provocation

FURTHER PROBE HINTED

Ex-Sheriff To Require New Teeth; Aide's Jaw Bone Broken

Two state liquor enforcement agents beaten when they entered the Bula Athletic club near Ash-ta-bula were set on without cause by about 15 men, Chief W. J. Cleary of the enforcement division, charged Friday.

The agents were Frank Davis, 45, of Circleville former Pickaway County sheriff, and Lester Ritchey, 42, of Atwater.

Cleary, who made a special trip from Columbus to investigate the beatings, said that further findings would have to wait until Ritchey has fully recovered and is better able to write and talk.

Ritchey's jaw is broken in two places, Cleary said.

Davis, he added "must get a new set of teeth."

"Should See Size"

Asked why the agents were beaten, Cleary said:

"So far as I can tell it was just because they entered to make a regular inspection. It looks like a whole football team worked on them. You should see the size of those fellows."

The club is in Geneva Township just outside of Ash-ta-bula and is privately operated, Cleary said. He also said that he intended to find out more about activities of the club.

EIGHT TO APPEAR FOR GRILLING IN JURY'S INQUIRY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Eight witnesses were scheduled to appear before the Franklin County grand jury when it resumes its investigation of gambling in and around the capital city today.

Summons for the witnesses were served yesterday. One of those summoned was William Lucas, a grade C laborer in the city water division. Names of the others were not disclosed.

Since the grand jury recessed last Friday, the county prosecutor and county sheriff have been hunting persons for whom summons were issued during the probe last week, but who could not be found at that time.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said he would be "ready" when the jury reconvenes. He would not elaborate on what he meant by "ready."

Meanwhile, rumor had it that "there will be plenty of indictments" when the jury finishes its investigation.

The jury's committee of three members met behind closed doors yesterday to continue examination of records submitted during 11 days of investigation before the recess.

DIVE INJURES SWIMMER

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Fifteen-year-old Herbert Swank was in serious condition in a Columbus hospital today with injuries suffered when he dived into shallow water in the Olentangy River. He was placed in an iron lung when physicians found he was having difficulty breathing. Herbert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swank.

AUTOIST, 81, KILLED

ATHENS, Aug. 15—Eighty-one-year-old Orlando Anderson, of Athens, was killed and a companion injured when the auto in which they were riding overturned at nearby Trimble. Investigators said the wheels locked.

YOUTH CHANGES CHURCH TRYING TO EVADE ARMY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—The Fifth Corps Area judge advocate's office today continued investigation of Roger Marion Hostetler's claims to exemption from the draft as a conscientious objector.

Meanwhile, Hostetler, 23 and a native of near Urbana, still refused to don his army uniform and was in confinement at Fort Hayes.

Hostetler's local draft board at Urbana refused to recognize his plea for exemption on grounds he is a member of the Mennonite church, which is opposed to military training.

The youth, Fort Hayes officials said, had been a member of the United Brethren church and did not become a Mennonite until after he had received his draft questionnaire.

Hostetler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion H. Hostetler, Route 2, Urbana, was inducted last Friday and on arrival at Fort Hayes, to which he was assigned for preliminary training, refused to put on his uniform.

JENKINS SCORES PRICE ADJUSTER AS COMMUNIST

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Asserting there is a lack of "genuine Americans" in the National Administration, Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins, Ironton Republican, today had branded Price Controller Leon Henderson a Communist.

In an address before delegates to the 48th annual meeting of the state council, Daughters of America, Jenkins did not mention Henderson by name, but said:

"In Washington today there are too many people in high places that aren't genuine Americans. I don't mean the President, of course, but there's a certain man in charge of all price controlling who has been accused by Congressmen Dies as a member of five active Communist organizations."

Jenkins asserted "we should pay attention to the words of George Washington, when he said 'Let no man be on guard tonight except an American'."

The convention was to close today with the installation of officers. Mrs. Judith L. Dunn, Piqua, will succeed Mrs. Edna Belle Gholson, of Ironton, as state councillor.

POULTRY HOUSE BLAZE PROBED

Flames Break Out Early Friday In Center Of Building

A fire, the cause of which Fire Chief Talmer Wise said "warranted investigation," broke out in the old Riggan poultry house off South Western Avenue Friday morning about 5 o'clock.

Starting in an old refrigerator in the middle of the building the flames spread to the rafters and burned a hole through the roof before firemen placed the blaze under control. Damage was estimated by Chief Wise at $200.

Wilson Woods, night watchman for Maizo Mills, noticed smoke coming from the building a few minutes before five o'clock. He drove to the fire department and notified Chief Wise.

Firemen remained at the building for more than an hour, using two big lines to keep the flames from spreading to wool which was stored in one side of the building. The wool was not damaged.

The old poultry building stands near storage tanks owned by the Circleville Oil Company.

State fire wardens were expected to investigate the fire sometime Friday.

NEW BRIDGE TO BE ERECTED ON STATE RT. 104

Construction of a concrete slab bridge with concrete substructure is called for in a contract awarded today by the Ohio Department of Highways, the improvement to be on State Route 104, the Columbus-Chillicothe-Western road in Union Township, Ross County.

Hal G. Sours, director, said the contract was awarded to W. J. Seldenticker, Bexley, O., for $40,454. The estimated cost of the project was $42,600.

The contract calls for grading, erection of necessary drainage structures and paving with asphaltic concrete on stabilized materials. The concrete bridge will have spans of 27.5 feet, 22 feet and a roadway width of 28 feet. The bridge is over what is known as Dry Run.

According to Arthur H. Peake, chief engineer for the highway department in the division of which Ross County is a part, said the old highway alignment had two short 10 degree curves, whereas the new alignment will have two long curves of slightly more than one degree each.

A barn, a garage and a shed owned by O. B. and N. S. Atwell of Chillicothe, will be removed to make way for the improvement. New grade will .94 percent, compared with the present grade of 4 percent. Length of the project is 0.662 miles. Completion date is July 30, 1942.

FOLK: Berger Hospital in the last couple of weeks has provided relief and comfort for many persons hurt in highway and other accidents. These injured persons have many friends and relatives who are interested in their welfare. Naturally they want to know how they are progressing in the hospital. This is just a plea to all of you to refrain from telephoning the hospital unless it is really imperative that you do so. The hospital does not have sufficient employees that someone can always be at the telephone. Nurses who have other duties to perform must leave their work to answer the calls. Their efficiency is cut down when they have to do this, the time they devote to their patients is reduced, and generally speaking, the calls do much to break up the hospital's routine. The other day it was necessary for attaches to remove the receiver from the hook so that the phone's constant ringing could be stopped. Please, all of you, do not keep the telephone lines to the hospital busy all the time. Don't call the institution out of curiosity to learn how some one is getting along. Give the hospital a break, can't you? It would be appreciated, I am sure.

TO DEERCREEK COMMUNITY

FARMERS: The cooperative spirit which prevails in your community was proven again last week end when two young robbers fled from one of the homes in your district with more than $35 in loot. In less time than it would take to tell all the details enough of you were out in the fields and on the roads with guns and clubs to make capture of the culprits certain. I am sure that your work was appreciated by the sheriff's office and by the persons who were victims of the burglars. Orchids to you for a fine job.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNCIL

GENTLEMEN: Once more the voters of Circleville have defeated a levy to raise operating money for the city's departments. Before the election, you announced to the public through the distribution of hand bills that if the levy failed it would be necessary to cut the city's police and fire protection, to reduce its staff at Berger Hospital and to shut off the city's water and street lights. If the public believed you, apparently it prefers city blackouts, and reduced police and fire protection to an increase of 1½ mills in its taxes. Both the police department and the fire department now are operating under slashed budgets and to cut them more probably could not be accomplished without seriously curtailing the city's police and fire protection. However, it seems to be the sentiment of the voters that they prefer some sort of curtailment to additional taxes. Therefore it is up to you to work out a program to enable you to operate within your budget.

CIRCUITEER.

TO MAYOR CADY

SIR: The other day you had occasion to "shoot the works" in the case of a hit-skip motorist who, when driving when under the influence of liquor, drove his automobile into a cyclist, severely injuring a youngster. I commend you for putting the law violator into a cell for quite a while to come. At the present "rate of exchange" the autoist will be in the county bastille for many, many days as a result of his fine of $400 and costs, plus a 30 day compulsory jail term. A hit-skip motorist has no place on the highway, if he can be apprehended. The state should revoke his driving license, and local police should see that he remains from behind the wheel of any automobile. It is extremely fortunate that the youngster who was injured will recover, barring complications. I wish also to commend members of the police department who did such a grand job in tracing the hit-skip car and routing its driver from his bed. They worked with speed and efficiency, and deserve congratulations from all of us.

CIRCUITEER.

TO THE LIVESTOCK CLUBS

BOYS AND GIRLS: County Agent F. K. Blair recently announced that 53 of you will enter 81 head of livestock in the State Fair junior division this year. Every year Pickaway County receives its share of laurels from the Fair and with the quality of stock owned by some of you, this year probably will be no exception. Your participation in the Fair competition does more than win honors for yourselves. It advertises Pickaway County as an agricultural community in which there is good quality livestock, and it brings into the county some of the best stock buyers in the state. Your participation in the Fair is good advertising for your club livestock show and sale which you will hold during the Pumpkin Show again this year. It promises to be one of the outstanding events of the show.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FIRE BUILDERS

FOLK: This week the fire department has received three calls resulting from grass fires which have spread out of control. In all instances, the fires have developed from unwatched burning rubbish piles or bonfires. Recent dry hot weather has made the grass in vacant lots and along fences highly flammable and only a spark is needed to spread a small fire over a considerable space. The best precaution you can use is to stay by your fire until you are sure it is out. Don't burn rubbish close to buildings or when there is a strong wind. A little precaution may save a lot of property damage.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

HAVE THE German military higher-ups relegated Herr Hitler to a back seat, and started to run things according to their ideas, without much regard for his feuerherstic preferences?

That's the story that's current in Washington. The source of it isn't very clear, though the presumption is that it's a diplomatic leak from somewhere. It isn't verifiable here, either. Nevertheless, there's a bit of circumstantial evidence in support of it. On analysis it doesn't sound altogether improbable.

Everybody'll remember that, only quite recently, Jap Foreign Minister Matsuoka visited Rome and Berlin to ask Duce Mussolini and Fuehrer Hitler how Nippon could be most helpful to totalitarianism in destroying the democracies, that Adolf told him that one way would be for him to arrange a Jap-Russian pact, that Minister Matsuoka did it, that, almost immediately thereafter, Germany launched a blitzkrieg against the Soviet Union, and that this sequence of events made Minister Matsuoka look like such a sucker that Japan's Premier Koyama kicked him out of the Tokyo cabinet.

It wasn't easy to see why Adolf should have plotted deliberately to double-cross his Japanese caller, considering that the latter was friendly to him. The general surmise was that he really wanted the Jap-Russian pact when he suggested it; then suddenly changed his mind and went ahead with his new program entirely regardless of the fix in which he was involved.

ing Minister Matsuoka. The latest story makes better sense than that guess did.

ARMY DECIDES

The latest one's to the effect that Adolf did, indeed, want a Jap-Russian pact and didn't intend, then or thereafter, to attack the Soviets (not so soon, anyway), but that the German army command considered the time ripe for the blitz and turned it loose, telling Adolf to go chase himself.

That's some of the circumstantial evidence previously mentioned. Now for the analysis. What class traditionally runs the German army? Why, the junkers. And the junkers are the Fatherland's military aristocracy. They never were democratic, but neither were they socialistic, like Herr Hitler and his Nazis. They were privileged nobles. They got along with the Kaiser because he was one of 'em. So was President von Hindenburg. The "von" at the front end of his name testifies to his noble rating.

But Adolf was just a measly little workman — not a "von" or anything, a mere house painter. A marshal? Heck, no. A corporal.

And yet he wormed in somehow, and deflated junkerdom. Does it stand to reason that the junkers liked it? He caught 'em, initially, at a time when junkerdom was in an awful state of disorganization. Probably, while he was building himself up, the junkers didn't realize what was happening to 'em. By the time they did realize it, he'd put his stunt across and there wasn't anything they could do about it until some favorable opportunity presented itself. Maybe they thought they sensed such an opportunity in connection with the present situation.

If so, why don't they tie an actual can onto Adolf or liquidate him, as well as chuck him into the background, still as a nominal, though no longer a sure-enough Fuehrer?

The likeliest answer is that he continues to have, as yet, quite a rank-and-file following, and the junkers deem it unwise to be prematurely over-obvious.

As additional circumstantial evidence, does Rudolf Hess' flight to Britain signify anything? It's a little too soon to say as to that, but it may turn out to be actual testimony.

HOW ABOUT GOERING?

And then, for another rumor, it's persistently reported that Marshal Goering was demoted or forcibly retired awhile back, that at least he was in disfavor with Herr Hitler, that he positively was in jail, according to some accounts. These yarns have been denied again and again, but they keep coming. Do they imply that the marshal has been developing pro-junkerism?

All these reports and circumstantial indications are pretty vague in these censored times, but they're numerous and not entirely unconvincing.

The junkers may be as bad as Adolf, but they'd be a change, anyway.

DIET AND HEALTH

One Foe of Mankind Is Always On Schedule

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● However unpredictable Hitler and Stalin may be, there is one enemy of mankind that works absolutely on schedule. That is our old enemy ragweed which begins to pollinate about August 15th, so that those who are subject to the late summer and fall type of hayfever are preparing to resist their invisible but none the less malignant invader.

I want to start out the articles this year with some suggestions that have come in from readers. Here's one from Winchester, Virginia.

"I am in poor health and cannot stand the ordeal of shots for my hayfever. Besides I cannot afford to leave town or have an air-conditioned room. Is it possible to get relief from wearing nose protection as evidenced in some magazines?"

This contains an essential fallacy, because hayfever patients will tell you that their eyes are more trouble than their nose, and inasmuch as there is a connection between the eyes and the nose, and the secretion of the eyes runs down through a duct into the nose, the pollens which alight in the eyes are dissolved in the tears which on account of their salt content, make an ideal solution for pollen and flow down into the nose, causing trouble there no matter whether the nostrils are stopped up or not.

Another suggestion comes from W. W. D. of Kansas City: "With the approach of the hayfever season, may I tell you of my experience with it? My father and mother moved from Western Pennsylvania to Kansas to alleviate his asthma and hayfever, both severe. A brother and sister with severe cases of hayfever, and my own case seems bad enough.

"With the advent of each season

I buy a bath spray which hooks on the water spout of the bath, and costs fifty to seventy-five cents. I take one of these spray baths on arising the year round, but at this season I let the spray play particularly on my throat and upper chest. In the evening before dinner, I let this cold spray play on my throat and chest, and again before going to bed, and I hardly know it is the hayfever season. That is, until some evening, I miss the pre-dinner shower or the bedtime shower, and then I suffer as much as anyone with burning eyes and running nose. That, usually happens but once or twice in a season. One feels so well he thinks he can skip it without being penalized, but the pollen gets him.

"My remedy is so simple that sufferers won't believe me—but I would be interested to have you recommend this to a wide number and check the results."

I received this letter last year too late to help sufferers in that hayfever season. I have had no personal experience with the method, and cannot, therefore, give it my recommendations, but since it is perfectly harmless, I am glad to give it publicity and will be glad to hear from my readers what results they have obtained from it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
E. H. G.: "Has a seven-year-old child a chance to outgrow a rheumatic heart caused by acute rheumatic fever?"

Answer: Acute rheumatic fever affects the heart in different ways. If the heart muscle or pericardium alone is affected, the child will probably overcome it in time. If the valves are affected, the condition is likely to be permanent, but may not progress for many years.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

THE FOLLOWING morning Diane walked into her brother's bedroom. "Remember when you were a little boy?" she softly queried. "How you always dragged Roy Reeves home with you if you thought you had a padding awaiting?" Tate grunted puzzledly and accepted the before breakfast cigarette Diane had lighted. "Well," she went on, "I thought you might like me to go with you today when you go to see Ylena."

Tate cast his sister a look of brotherly love and appreciation. "Good old D! Even if I do want to kill you occasionally, I can depend on you in pinches." That was the solution, a bodyguard against what squirmish he might feel in the combined presence of his fiancée and his ex-love, Francie. "Thanks, pardner."

Family brigade! That was what Ylena thought when she looked through her showroom windows the next afternoon and saw Tate, Diane and Davy getting out of Tate's car. By the time they entered she had conquered her twitching mouth and was able to greet them with poise. Davy ran ahead of his mother to greet the blond girl.

"Hello, Davy," she cried and lifted him into her arms. "What a nice surprise," she said as the two grown-ups reached her. "And how dear of you to bring Davy." She was looking at Diane now. "I hope Mr. O'Neill doesn't mind. I'm afraid he thinks I spoil children."

Rather than admit Percy did not know where Davy was, Diane said tactfully, "He doesn't mind."

Tate had a proprietary arm about Ylena's waist. She put Davy on the floor, still holding his hand. "Let's go up to my apartment and have a drink."

Diane murmured, "We don't want to interrupt your work. We just stopped in for a moment." Nevertheless, she was lifting silver fox scarves from her chic black wool suit.

"Nonsense!" Ylena said. "I'm delighted. That's another reason I'll appreciate Francie." She called to her assistant.

The sounds of a sewing machine ceased and the swarthy-skinned girl stepped to the door of the main room. She blushed darkly when she saw Tate, but spoke in a voice, friendly, yet not without dignity.

Tate blushed also, even more furiously and said, "Hello there, Francie. I haven't seen you in ages," then got exceedingly busy showing Davy some old-fashioned music boxes.

Deliberately Ylena introduced Francie to Mrs. O'Neill, then went ahead to explain, "Francie is a good friend of your brother's." Rather haughtily Diane eyed the helper in her dark skirt and work smock.

"How do you do?" she said with a brief nod.

About such a greeting, Ylena

thought, as she had received from Diane on that momentous Sunday. No matter how charming Diane might be, forever and a day Ylena knew that little festered spot would never leave her memory.

"Francie, will you please watch the front while I am upstairs?" She noticed Davy moving from the music boxes to the cupboard of carved animals. "Davy, would you like to stay here and play with the toys?"

Sharply contradicting his eager nod, Diane O'Neill said, "He'll be a bother."

"I'd love to watch him," Francie offered. "I love children."

Ylena said, "I'm sure he'll be completely safe here with Francie," and led the slightly uncomfortable pair up to her apartment.

Diane demurred still further. "I really don't know anything about Francie."

Ylena said smartly, "She's from a family of 11. Diane, I'm sure she's able to look after one child. Davy will be very happy down there, so do sit down and relax." She smiled at Tate. "There's some excellent sherry in that cupboard."

Fully aware of the helpful background it would make for her black hair, white skin and stunning black wool suit, Diane sat down in a lemon yellow chair and looked admiringly about her hostess' living room.

The blinds were a soft rose, tall, rather slim little tables, supported by copper cylinders. The fireplace was backed by deep rose brick and topped by a blue mantel. The lamp bases, carpet and two small davenport were rose; also the draperies at the side of blue Venetian blinds.

"This room is beautiful," Diane praised. "Usually pink and blue make such a sickening combination."

"The chair you're sitting in and all the native copper and trailing green vines keep it from being too insane," Ylena was talking to Diane, but her eyes were on Tate.

He walked toward them, carrying glasses of pale amber sherry on a hammered copper tray.

Diane lifted her glass. "Shall we drink to an early wedding?"

"With gusto!" Tate answered.

Ylena answered the smiles of both. Tate sat down at her feet.

"Darling," he asked in a roundabout way, "how long are you going to need extra help?" Beneath his lashes, long and dark like a child's, he studied his wine.

So that was what he hoped. That she had hired Francie for the Christmas rush only. Savoring the moment of revelation, she said in a matter of fact voice, "Permanently."

He looked up shocked. "Permanently?" he echoed, and gave his sister a helpless look.

In a sweet voice she intimated, "I think Tate means he would be more comfortable if your helper were someone besides Francie."

Maliciously Ylena said to Tate, "You mean you have some other girl you'd like me to hire?" Her eyes were wide and naive.

"You know I don't mean that," he thundered. He set down his sherry glass with a clash and began an angry exploration of his pockets for cigarettes.

"Here you are, dear," Ylena handed him a full pack from the table beside her. Soothingly she told him, "You mustn't worry about Francie, Tate. And you don't have to tell me you are definitely through with her. She already has told me herself and I have reason to believe she is a very honest girl."

"Then you won't get rid of her?" "No. Why should I? She needs the work." The blond girl looked at Tate's set face, furious because he had been thwarted. She then glanced at his sister's face. It, too, was stiff with disapproval. To herself Ylena thought in cocky, tomboyish glee, "O. K. Get mad. Get who cares. This is my backyard and I'll rule it as see fit."

"But, Ylena," Tate persisted, "it makes me such a darn fool—suppose I had someone working for me whom you know? Suppose," he said with venomous insinuation, "I had Scott Hamilton working for me?" He turned the full glare of his dark-blue eyes upon her.

Her green eyes were just as glaring in return. "In the first place, Scott Hamilton is not an sweetheart. Furthermore," she said in supercilious pride, "I hardly think Scott Hamilton would work for you."

"Of course he wouldn't," Tate grunted. "I was only trying to prove to you how it makes me feel."

"Then make a fair comparison." She flushed as Tate got up from where he was sitting at her feet and walked over to look through the blue Venetian blinds into busy Main boulevard traffic.

Diane spoke up. "I guess poor Tate is having green dragons over Scott."

"He's having a plain case of baby tantrums because he can't get his way. Men want women to be obligingly malleable in all respects, and when they aren't—poof! Insulted. Outraged dignity and all that stuff." Despite her ridicule, she went over to join Tate. When he persistently refused to look at her, she bent until her face was in front of his. Then he put both arms around her and pulled her close.

Across his shoulder Ylena saw Diane's face, pleased now, mouth smiling around a cigarette.

"Darling," the blond girl said, "Francie is here for no other reason than that I felt sorry for her and she can help me. Remember that. Remember also that Scott Hamilton is merely a good friend and that I adore you."

Tate drew her still closer. Then looking past her soft blond hair he murmured rather sarcastically, "Incidentally, here comes your 'good friend' now."

SWARTHOUT, KOSTELANETZ

As a sort of preview performance for her own series, Gladys Swarthout will make a guest appearance on the Andre Kostelanetz program Sunday, August 24, at 7 p. m. A week after her showing on the Kostelanetz airing, Miss Swarthout becomes star of her own series, "The Family Hour" to be heard Sundays at 4 p. m., beginning August 31.

ON CAVALCADE

Cavalcade of America Players, Monday, with Kenneth Delmer, cast in the starring role of Stephen Douglas, will present a dramatization of the man who made Buchanan President, who as the most powerful Senator in Congress seemed destined to be our country's President in 1861 and yet whose unwillingness to follow the dictates of his conscience hurried him to political obscurity.

This is the true story of a great politician who, too late, realized that his carefully plotted political maneuvers had been bested by forthrightness and simple truth.

Cavalcade producers trace the dramatic political disintegration of the lion-hearted orator Douglas and show how his devotion to the Constitution and union of the states finally overcame his lust for power. By his own hand this man cast the vote of oblivion for his career in order to pledge his strength and energy to a Union he knew must be preserved.

RADIO BRIEFS

Frank Fay, who has just been signed to start a new comedy series Saturday, October 4, is also expected to appear in a Broadway show this fall. Private Garson Kanin, "hottest" of the young movie directors, is at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and he and Fay have a script they like, in which Kanin plans to direct the comedian in on Broadway.

Their current tour of army camps may take Phil Spitalny and his girls as far as California. West coast military boys are demanding performances by them.

Having rounded out a solid year as a comedian on the Rudy Vallee programs, John Barrymore has been given another 13-week pact effective with the next broadcast. The Great Profile's brother, Lionel, is also working his way into the show, has made three appearances already, and is due for a fourth on Aug. 21.

Billy Mills quits Chicago for Hollywood this week with the cast of the "Hap Hazard" program, which will originate from the film city during the winter. Sponsor of "Fibber McGee" will continue "Hap Hazard".

Lyn Murray's "Hit Parade" choir is due to make a series of motion picture shorts with all the music arranged by the conductor-composer.

AUGUST FUR SALE ON AT CRIST DEPT. STORE

Maury Kamens, factory representative of Greenblatts Fur Company, is in Circleville where he will conduct a two-day sale at Crist Department Store beginning Saturday. During this sale he will assist local women in selecting furs for the fall and winter season and will gladly give information concerning advance fur fashions.

He predicts mink dyed muskrat, caraculs and seals as leading favorites for the 1941-42 season, and mentions that many smartly dressed women are buying fur chubbies along with their fur coats. The 1941-42 coats are made to reveal a slimmer silhouette and armholes are cut deeper, giving the wearer more freedom and creating the illusion of narrowness across the back. Rounded shoulders, raglan and English drape sleeves will be popular with body silhouettes ranging from straight box to boxy swaggers. These new features are all incorporated in the coats displayed at Crist Department Store during this sale.

Mr. Kamens sees a profound effect on the American fur market due to the present European war, as a large percentage of furs used commercially in this country are imported. However, through large scale purchasing power Greenblatts is still able to offer the pick of the fine skins at popular prices. Large and rapid turn-over in their many retail outlets enables them to purchase furs, linings and other materials at low prices and these savings are passed on to the consumer.

All Greenblatt coats sold by Crist Department Store are made in three factories at Fort Wayne and South Bend and Flint, Michigan. Greenblatts furs are handled exclusively in Circleville by Crist Department Store.

Except for the first inning when he walked Cliff and served up a home run ball to George McQuinn, Dean managed well enough. Bob Feller replaced him, however, in the sixth, after the long delay caused by the rain.

Oscar Grimes got a homer for the Redskins, and Heath and Walker hit triples as both teams collected eight hits each.

DEFENSE BOARD AFFECTING AGRICULTURE TO BE SET UP IN COUNTY

AAA LEADERS MEET IN CITY TO TALK TASKS

John G. Boggs, Chairman Of County Unit, To Call Farmers Together

PROGRAM TO BE FORMED
Sheets For Computation Of 1941 Payments Put Out At Confab

A Defense Board, activities of which are expected to affect every farmer in Pickaway County, will be set up within the next two weeks.

Announcement that such a board would be established in the county came Thursday afternoon during a district AAA meeting at which Dale Williams, Darke County, member of the state AAA committee, addressed county AAA chairmen and informed them that each would be made chairman of a Defense Board to be set up in his respective county.

Primary purpose of the board, Williams said, would be to coordinate the county's agricultural program with the nation's defense program. The board will be concerned primarily with agricultural production and with adjustments in agricultural production. Chairman of the local Defense Board will be John G. Boggs, county AAA chairman.

Following Thursday's district meeting, held at Betz' restaurant, Chairman Boggs conferred with County Agent F. K. Blair and the two decided that the county's agricultural agencies could be called together within the next couple of weeks and a Defense Board created and placed in operation.

Agencies Invited
Agricultural agencies which will be asked to participate in the county-wide program are the AAA, the County Extension Service, the Rural Electrification Association, the Production Credit Association, the Farm Security Administration and the Home Conservation committee.

Exactly what each agency will be asked to do cannot be determined until after the meeting is held. Chairman Boggs said, and Williams gave the county chairmen no specific instructions on the functions of the board. Agricultural agencies must first determine what they can do in the way of defense before any rules are set up governing the program, he told the county chairman.

The AAA will act as the executive head for the other agencies, Boggs said, and will bear all expenses incurred by the board. Its function in the defense program probably will concern crop adjustments and limitations.

To Conserve Power
The REA may be asked to do everything possible to conserve electrical power or perhaps to extend lines in areas where electricity is needed for National Defense production. Extension agencies may be asked to suggest that farmers raise more poultry feeds, canned goods and products which can readily be turned into defense use. The farm loan agencies may be asked to extend additional credit to farmers who raise "defense crops."

Remainder of Thursday's meeting was devoted to giving instructions to local AAA officials on filling out computation sheets for AAA payments to farmers this fall who have complied with the AAA program.

An issue which came before the 40 AAA officials assembled Thursday was the growing resentment of farmers to the government's proposal to permit farmers to use their excess wheat for livestock feed.

"Farmers who have already paid their 40 cent penalties and marketed their excess wheat are just wakening to the fact that under the new proposal they will get no rebates on their penalty payments," Harry Donahoe, district AAA field representative, said.

The proposal has passed both houses of Congress and awaits the President's signature, although Donahoe said he felt certain the

GEN. BEIGHTLER SCORES SOUTHERN PRICE BOOSTS

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 15 —The practice of restaurant operators who increased their prices when the army's Thirty-seventh (Ohio) Division moved into the Lake Charles area for maneuvers is "contemptible and unpatriotic," Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler asserted today.

General Beightler said sample menus showed prices hastily altered, some hiked 33 percent. He pointed out that soldiers make $30 a month or less.

Meanwhile, the 37th Division, transferred temporarily from Camp Shelby, Miss., settled down to a new camp in a low, flat grassy area 15 miles north of Lake Charles.

President would veto the measure. Community AAA committee-men were meeting at the county AAA office Friday to receive instructions on filling out computation sheets.

Held as Nazi

ACCUSED of acting as a secret agent for the German government, August Baecker, Sr., is pictured as he appeared in the United States commissioner's office in Detroit. He was held on charges of recruiting Detroit's craftsmen for work in Germany's military industries. Baecker fell in the dragnet suddenly drawn over the motor city by federal agents seeking persons engaged in subversive activities.

THREE FUGITIVES FROM PRISON FARM HUNTED

LONDON, Aug. 15 — An intensive search was launched today for two slayers and a robber who slipped out of the London Prison Farm canning plant and escaped.

Supt. W. F. Amrine identified the fugitives as Steve Bolan, 38; Robert Hileman, 37, and Lovell Horsley, 35, all of Cincinnati.

Bolan and Hileman were convicted of second-degree murder and Horsley for assault to rob.

Bolan entered Ohio penitentiary May 22, 1931 and would have received a parole hearing next month. He was charged with killing Vernon Hemsley during a 1930 Christmas eve argument.

Hileman was convicted of the slaying of Virginia Fitzgerald, 23, May 23, 1933.

AMANDA RAIL STATION TO DO STOUTSVILLE BUSINESS

Authorization to change its freight station at Stoutsville from agency to non-agency has been granted the Pennsylvania Railroad by the state Utilities Commission. Business will be handled at Amanda.

After nearly half a century of business, the railroad early this summer petitioned the Utilities Commission to abandon the station at Stoutsville because of the lack of business.

Before the trucking business came into being, the Stoutsville station was noted for its livestock and grain shipping.

Peter Encourages Suffering Christians HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 17 is I Peter 4:12-19; 5:6-11, the Golden Text being I Peter 4:16, "If a man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God in this name.")

AT THE time St. Peter wrote his two epistles, a great persecution of the Christians was going on. The very name of Christian applied to a man was likely to get him into trouble with the authorities. Christians were accused of being evil doers and of preaching revolutionary doctrines. Nero in Rome had set the example of putting them to death, and in the provinces there were many who were only too willing to follow his example. Paul, Aquila and Luke were already martyred, and followers of Christ had few to whom they could turn to strengthen their faith and give them comfort in their sufferings. Peter himself, according to report, was later crucified, but insisted that he be put to death head downward, as he felt he was not worthy to die in the position in which his Master, Jesus, had perished.

So while he was still among them, Peter undertook to speak words of comfort and to strengthen the hearts and wills of his fellow Christians.

"Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial among you, which cometh upon you to prove you, as though a strange thing happened to you," he writes. Peter himself knew how weak is man, for had he not denied his Lord three times when Jesus most needed him, and repented in tears and humility?

Martyrs Should Rejoice

Instead of wondering why such grief and suffering had come upon them, they should rejoice because they were also partakers of Christ's sufferings. Such persecution would "prove them," show that they were true followers of their Master and not afraid to die, if need be, for the cause they believed in.

"If ye are reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are ye, because the spirit of glory and the spirit of God resteth on you."

Have you ever been razed and insulted by schoolmates or friends because you wouldn't do as they wanted you to, thinking it not right? If you have, you know a very little about the feelings of these poor men and women, who, because they dared stand by their convictions, were in danger of being tortured and put to death.

You were in no danger of losing your life because you took a stand for what you believed was right; but you can appreciate their terror and unhappiness in small measure. There are many in the world today who also are suffering for their convictions and going to their death therefor, sad to relate. They need our sympathy.

They need our sympathy.

TWO AUTOS HIT AT INTERSECTION IN EARLY MORN

Four brothers from Dayton, who told police officers they were on their way to Nelsonville to the death bed of their father, escaped injury Friday morning about 5:30 when their car was struck broadside at Court and Mound Streets by a Columbus motorist whose car skidded 48 feet in an attempt to avoid a collision.

Driver of the Dayton car was Wendell Carr, 40, 845 Vermont Avenue, and riding with him were his brothers Guy, Lloyd and Chester. Carr was traveling east on Mound Street and failed to observe the stop sign at Court, Patrolman Alva Shasteen said.

The Columbus car, driven by Don S. Seeley, 462 Garden Heights, was going north on Court, hit the Dayton auto in the side, rolling it over in the street.

No one was injured and the Carr brothers crawled out through a window. Both sides of the Dayton auto were damaged.

Griffith and Martin

"Where Floorcovering is a Specialty"

Eight years ago today Griffith and Martin, the floor-covering store, came into being.

Established by two local men, George Griffith and Emerson Martin with a thorough knowledge of floor-covering and a faith that a store which carried high grade products of the best quality, fairly priced, would be a success in Pickaway County. They believed that those things were what the people wanted. They established such a store and the response was immediate. The people of Pickaway County gave immediate assurance by their purchases that such a store filled their needs.

The same high quality of merchandise, materials and high grade workmanship has been maintained through the years and the best has been stocked in linoleums, rugs, paints, blinds, wallpaper, etc.

Today the eighth year has been completed and Griffith and Martin wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your support of their store and assure you that they will continue along the same lines and with the same merchandise for years to come...

Ferry Plane Fall Kills 22, Including Capt. Mackey

SECOND AIRCRAFT DISASTER IN WEEK'S TIME CAUSES DEATHS OF FLYERS ASSISTING BRITAIN

Mackey, 31, Appeared At Shows Here

Aviator Killed In Ferry
Crash Acquainted With
Circleville Men

Captain Joe C. Mackey, 31, who was killed Thursday near London, England, in the crash of an English ferry plane, was a native of Columbus and was widely acquainted in Circleville where he had appeared several times as a feature of Air Day. Mackey's last visit here was about five years ago when the air show was conducted on the Walter Goodman farm in Pickaway Township.

Mackey was a personal friend of Durward Dowden, Howard Stevenson, Tom A. Renick and the late Forrest Valentine, all of whom were active in the Circleville chapter of the National Aeronautic Association several years ago.

Despite reports to the contrary that he and his parents had once lived in Circleville, Mr. Dowden said Friday that Mackey had never told him that he had resided here, but had said that his mother, Mrs. B. C. Mackey of Columbus, had friends in the city.

The aviator was married and father of a seven year old son, his family living in Kansas City, Mo.

Famous as Stunter
Mackey was one of the nation's best known stunt flyers, his career gaining him the Freddie Lund trophy for precision aerobatics and a medal in Paris.

Only a few months ago, the famous flyer escaped death in a crash on the coast of Newfoundland when piloting a Canadian government plane. His three companions, one of whom was Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, were killed.

Captain Mackey began flying at Cleveland airport in 1927 and soon was one of the nation's best known stunt flyers. He had barnstormed over the country in a special taper-wing Waco biplane, being stellar performer at several air shows.

A veteran of more than 3,500 hours of flying, Mackey flew in practically every major air show in the United States from 1934 to 1939 and completed in Bendix and Thompson Trophy races at Cleveland's National Air Races.

He returned to active duty in the Army Air Corps Reserve about three years ago and was an instructor at Kelly Field, Tex., Air Corps Training Center, in aerobatics and advanced flying.

In the summer of 1939, Mackey resigned his Air Corps Commission to fly one of Col. Roscoe Turner's ships in the Thompson Trophy race and placed sixth. He was in business for several months

Purvis, Purchasing Agent For Isle Empire, Victim

LONDON, Aug. 15—Twenty-two men, including the Rt. Hon. Arthur Purvis, director general of the British Purchasing Commission in the United States, were killed last night in this week's second crash of trans-Atlantic ferry planes.

Capt. Joseph Creighton Mackey, 31-year-old Kansas City pilot, also lost his life in the accident.

Errol Wellington Watson of Los Angeles, Cal., was extricated alive from the wreckage, but died of burns in a hospital during the night.

Purvis and the other victims were taking off from a British airport, the Air Ministry announced today, en route to Canada. The other men in the wrecked plane were pilots engaged in ferrying American-built planes back to Britain.

Another 22 pilots, seven of them Americans, were killed Sunday when a ferry plane smashed into a hillside in England.

Capt. Harold Balfour, undersecretary for air, flew to the scene of the accident with a staff of investigators. A thorough probe was planned, since the two accidents have robbed Britain of more than two-score of her best ferry pilots.

Capt. Mackey was the sole survivor of the smash-up in Newfoundland last February in which Sir Frederick Banting, famed discoverer of insulin, was killed.

Appeared To Be Clear

The ill-fated ferry plane was taking off for the United States and appeared to be rising clear when it suddenly began losing height.

It struck the edge of a raised highway on the fringe of the airport, crashed through a fence, and hurtled into a field.

MR. SMITH WOULD OUST PRESIDENT FOR HIS ACTION

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15—A promise to impeach President Roosevelt "if he pulls just two or three more deals like those of last week," today was left with almost 3,000 people by Gerald K. Smith, chairman of the "Committee of 1,000,000," who spoke last night in Public Music Hall.

President Roosevelt made a "deal" with King George and Queen Elizabeth "while they ate hot dogs at Hyde Park," Smith said, denouncing Roosevelt's conference at sea with Winston Churchill.

"We'll impeach Franklin D. Roosevelt for a couple more deals like that," Smith shouted. "We won't wait for 1944."

UNOFFICIAL AND OFFICIAL ELECTION RETURNS SAME

No change will be made in the Primary election returns, election board officials announced Friday, reporting that the official returns were the same as the unofficial announced immediately after the election.

Candidates Friday were filing their expense accounts with the elections board. Mayor W. B. Cady's total amount was $97.33. Expenses of A. J. Lyle, Republican candidate for mayor, were $4.50 and for Joseph W. Adkins, Democratic candidate for solicitor, $3.50, expenses of both candidates representing the necessary filing fee. Neither Lyle nor Adkins was opposed in the Primary.

Deadline for filing expense accounts with the elections board will be August 22 at 6:30 p. m.

President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill "Somewhere At Sea"

CAPITAL ASKS TWO QUESTIONS OF IMPORTANCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—The big question in political and diplomatic quarters in Washington today is:

What did President Roosevelt promise British Prime Minister Winston Churchill in return for the renunciation of British imperialism that was implied in the joint declaration of Anglo-American world policy?

Diplomatic observers, especially, doubted that Churchill, a life long imperialist, agreed to renounce in advance all territorial or economic advantages the British Empire might gain from a victory in this war unless he received something very promising from President Roosevelt.

The two questions foremost in the minds of political and diplomatic observers were:

1—Did the President promise Churchill that this country would enter the war if that step should be found necessary to save Great Britain?

2—Did the President commit the United States to participation in another League of Nations after this war is over?

Official sources profess that they do not know what, if anything the President may have promised Churchill. Privately, most of them doubt that the President made any definite commitment.

PIGEON CLUB ORGANIZES BY ELECTING OFFICERS

A Pigeon Club for Circleville was organized Thursday night when pigeon fans met at the home of Thomas Lake, 517 Elm Avenue. Mr. Lake was elected president; Ed Wallace, vice-president, and Dr. A. D. Blackburn, secretary-treasurer, of the club.

The club has ten charter members. Besides the officers they are Jack Lake, Elm Avenue; Walter Pickel, East Mound Street; James Pickel, East Mound Street; William H. Niles Jr., West Mill Street; Glen Jones, West Ohio Street; Edward Blum, Watt Street, and Paul Johnson, Northridge Road.

During the meeting the club made plans to enter an exhibit in the Pumpkin Show this year. Complete plans for Pumpkin Show participation will be made at the club's next meeting September 18.

NEW POLIO CASES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—The first case of infantile paralysis in Allen County was among the five new cases reported today to State Health Director R. H. Markwith, which brought to 106 the number of cases reported this year.

THE two heads of the greatest democratic nations on earth, President Franklin Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, are pictured during their historic rendezvous which was held "somewhere in the North Atlantic." A sensational development of the conference was the adoption of an eight-point program of general war aims expressing a determination to stamp out German tyranny.

UKRAINE WAR NEAR END, NAZIS CLAIM

BERLIN, Aug. 15—New tactics in warfare, differing widely from the blitz strategy of previous campaigns, have nearly completed the conquest of the rich Ukraine, German military officials said today. Through these tactics—still a secret—the Germans have saved most of the resources of the coveted land and trapped untold thousands of Russian troops, according to the Nazis.

Already, it was indicated, the Germans are planning to sweep across the Dnieper River towards the Volga, in a drive which would give the Nazis easy access to the oil fields of Iran.

Military officials said that one strong Soviet force had already been "annihilated" in the Ukraine. Twenty thousand prisoners were taken, it was said, with 32 tanks, 85 field guns and an armored train either captured or destroyed.

Latest advices said that Chancellor Hitler's personally-directed moves rapidly are mastering the Ukraine, sweeping that wealthy industrial, mining, and grain region into the hands of the Nazi war machine and cracking Josef Stalin's crack armies inside the great bend of the Dnieper River.

To Control Black Sea
Occupation of the province was said to be progressing systematically all the way to the Dnieper, with the German peninsula already in the war zone, foreshadowing early Nazi control of the Black Sea.

Odessa, the major Russian grain port, and Nikolaev, to the north-east, were under siege, with the Nazis biding their time in order to avert destruction of the cities through frontal attacks. German military authorities said that Kiev itself no longer is militarily important, as the Red defenses have collapsed within the bow of the Dnieper, leaving the capture of the Ukrainian metropolis a matter for the rear guard to handle.

Military officials said that the conquest of the Ukraine is "militarily unique." The victory in the productive Russian southwest was "achieved through singular operations," they said, "on the basis of a plan which in the future will be revealed as a new type of tactical warfare."

FIGHT OVER ANTI UNITS STIRS CIO CONVENTION

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15—Tension resulting from the ban imposed on members of subversive organizations within the United Automobile Workers-CIO reached such a high pitch today that union leaders reached agreement to delay the scheduled election of officers until proposed nominees could get in touch with CIO President Philip Murray.

At a bitter and turbulent session last night, the convention voted overwhelmingly to amend the union's constitution to bar members of Nazi, Fascist or Communist organizations from elective or appointive office in the union.

WOMEN HURT AS AUTOS COLLIDE IN COURT STREET

Collision of two cars in South Court Street Friday morning at 11:30 sent one woman to Berger Hospital for treatment and brought minor cuts and bruises to another.

Taken to the hospital by Patrolman Alva Shasteen was Mrs. Norma E. Ware, Spargursville Route 1, Pike County, who was released by hospital authorities after being treated for a cut over the nose.

Occupants of the other car were Mrs. Laura King, 148 West High Street, driver, and Mrs. John Boggs, 135 West Union Street. Mrs. Boggs received slight cuts and bruises when the right front door of the car crushed in against her, pinning her to the seat. Both Mrs. King and Mrs. Boggs were taken home by John Kerns of Circleville, a passerby.

Patrolman Shasteen said the two Circleville women had stopped at a South Court Street vegetable stand to make a purchase and after getting back into the car, Mrs. King had attempted to make a U-turn in the middle of the street. She told Shasteen that she did not see the Ware car approaching from the south.

The Spargursville car struck that of Mrs. King along the right side, damaging both cars, the right side of Mrs. King's car and the front end of the Ware car. Both cars are insured.

The accident happened between Logan and Town Streets.

ROUTE 23 RAID PLACES CHILLICOTHEAN IN COURT

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 15—Charges of exhibiting gambling devices for gain have been filed against Ray Walley, 145 East Main Street, Chillicothe. He will be arraigned before Squire Walter S. Barrett.

Walley was arrested Thursday by Deputy Sheriff C. J. Vincent in a raid on a small filling station north of the Seven Seas Night Club on U. S. Route 23. More than a truckload of gambling devices were confiscated, including a nickel cigarette machine, three counter dice games and a crap game table.

Penalty under the state anti-gambling code ranges from $50 to $500 and imprisonment from 10 days to 90 days.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15—Recovery of 41 of several hundred micrometers stolen from the Majestic and Central Tool and Machine Companies in Detroit was reported today by Cleveland police from 11 different pawnshops.

BRITISH EXECUTE FIRST GERMAN PARACHUTE SPY CAUGHT IN LONDON AREA

LONDON, Aug. 15—Shots rattling within the historic walls of the grim tower of London at dawn today brought a speedy end to the spy career of Josef Jakobs, the first German parachutist spy to be executed in England.

Jakobs, whose espionage attempts were nipped after only 12 hours, was marched before the firing squad within sight of the blood-stained ground where Anne Boleyn and Lady Jane Gray lost their heads.

A 43-year-old non-commissioned officer, and member of the German Army Meteorological Service, Jakobs, a native of Luxembourg, was dropped out of the skies in the London area. British home guardsmen caught the spy 12 hours after he landed—presumably through his equipment before he was able to dispose of it.

Eighth Point Of Program
Hit: "Come And Take Arms," Says Reich

BERLIN, Aug. 15—"If you want to disarm us, come on over here and take our guns away—if you dare!"

This was the challenge hurled by the Wilhelmstrasse at President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill today as the German press screamed defiance to the so-called Anglo-American "propaganda bluff."

As expected, the German government seized on the eighth and last point of the Roosevelt-Churchill 8-point program, which calls for disarmament of alleged aggressors. Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen termed the program a "complete flop"—using just that American colloquialism—and added:

"It is a colossal blunder."

"If you, Roosevelt, or you, Churchill, want to disarm us, come over here and do it, if you dare."

"Take our weapons away from us—if you can."

"We welcome the frankness of the American President and the English prime minister."

TALK OF BRITISH INVASION HEARD IN ISLES AGAIN

LONDON, Aug. 15—Talk of a British counter-invasion of the European continent was revived today as this country continued to hail jubilantly word of the sea meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

All quarters were convinced that results of the dramatic session went far beyond the announced eight-point Anglo-American peace aims.

One of the main points of discussion, it was assumed, was acceleration of assistance for the Soviet Union.

Government authorities continued to throw cold water on hopes of the man in the street that the British might take the initiative against Germany by land in the near future. This country, it was insisted, must continue to wage a defensive war for the time being.

Nevertheless the London News Chronicle revived speculation regarding a possible British land blow. London observers, the paper said, "Believe that if the British land on the continent, it will probably be at Murmansk or Archangel."

YOUTHS CLASSIFIED FOR EARLY CALL INTO ARMY

Selective Service board Thursday night finished tentative classifications on the 141 21-year-old registrants who registered for military service on July 1.

Eighty-seven of the group were placed tentatively in Class 1-A, and 12 have been sent notices to appear for physical examination beginning next Monday.

Those who will be examined are the registrants whose order numbers are at the top of the new registration list. They may be called into service on the next quota.

MIGHTY FORCE OF AUSTRALIANS READY FOR WAR

Largest Convoy Hauls Men
To New Danger Zone In
Eastern Region

JAP ACTIVITY WATCHED

Tough Anzacs, Trained For
Hard Fighting, Guard
Important Zone

SINGAPORE, Aug. 15—The largest convoy ever to reach Singapore arrived at this Far Eastern military, naval and air base today, bringing thousands of troops and powerful weapons from Australia.

It was the third such detachment to reach Singapore since the Far Eastern crisis arose, and its size and mobility exceeded anything ever seen at this port.

Tough Anzac troops, trained by the same methods that won laurels for Australians and New Zealanders in the tough battle of Libya and in Syria, were landed by the thousands.

The equipment, modern and deadly, included Bren gun carriers, swift little vehicles which have been used with amazing success in the African and Near Eastern campaign, trucks, planes and anti-tank guns. Complete ambulance units also were included.

Arrival of the convoy, hard on the heels of the recent shipments of Anglo-Indian forces to this important stronghold, was seen by official circles as indicative of the Allies' determination to make Singapore their first line of defense in the Pacific.

The new contingent apparently was dispatched soon after the Japanese moved into Indo-China under the Vichy "defense deal" which precipitated the greatest crisis to date in the vital, fabulously rich southern Pacific.

Japs on Border

And as they disembarked, while constantly patrolling warplanes roared overhead on a never-ending patrol of the vital near eastern base, the Japanese reportedly were taking up positions on the border between Indo-China and Thailand.

At the same time, the Tokyo press—as it has for almost a fortnight—continued its hue and cry against alleged "encirclement" by the A-B-C-D (American-British-Chinese-Dutch) front in the Far East.

Earlier detachments which arrived in Singapore reportedly have been moved east and north along the vital areas which Britain would have to defend should the ever-smouldering Far Eastern crisis suddenly explode.

Just how far the Allies have gone in their fighting and concerted defense drive to make Singapore the Gibraltar of the Pacific is not known, of course, and is due to remain a military secret for a long, long time.

But the reinforcements which have streamed into this port have

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARDS TOLD TO KEEP TEACHERS

County School Superintendent George McDowell said Friday that notices had been sent to school boards in the county asking them to retain all teachers after Friday in an effort to prevent last-minute vacancies in any of the schools.

Mr. McDowell said the county's teaching staff should be completed at board meetings next Monday and Tuesday nights.

Jackson Township board of education Thursday night hired its sixth new teacher for 1941-42, completing its teaching staff for the coming school year.

Robert D. Latta, Corning, Perry County, was employed to teach history, industrial arts and social science in the high school. Mr. Latta has had four years' training at Ohio University and four years' teaching experience in the Corning schools.

Two State Liquor Office Workers Beaten Without Any Provocation

FURTHER PROBE HINTED

Ex-Sheriff To Require New Teeth; Aide's Jaw Bone Broken

Two state liquor enforcement agents beaten when they entered the Bula Athletic club near Ash-tahula were set on without cause by about 15 men, Chief W. J. Cleary of the enforcement division, charged Friday.

The agents were Frank Davis, 45, of Circleville former Pickaway County sheriff, and Lester Ritchey, 42, of Atwater.

Cleary, who made a special trip from Columbus to investigate the beatings, said that further findings would have to wait until Ritchey has fully recovered and is better able to write and talk.

Ritchey's jaw is broken in two places, Cleary said.

Davis, he added, "must get a new set of teeth."

"Should See Size"

Asked why the agents were beaten, Cleary said:

"So far as I can tell it was just because they entered to make a regular inspection. It looks like a whole football team worked on them. You should see the size of those fellows."

The club is in Geneva Township just outside of Ash-tahula and is privately operated, Cleary said. He also said that he intended to find out more about activities of the club.

EIGHT TO APPEAR FOR GRILLING IN JURY'S INQUIRY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Eight witnesses were scheduled to appear before the Franklin County grand jury when it resumes its investigation of gambling in and around the capital city today.

Summons for the witnesses were served yesterday. One of those summoned was William Lucas, a grade C laborer in the city water division. Names of the others were not disclosed.

Since the grand jury recessed last Friday, the county prosecutor and county sheriff have been hunting persons for whom summons were issued during the probe last week, but who could not be found at that time.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said he would be "ready" when the jury reconvenes. He would not elaborate on what he meant by "ready."

Meanwhile, rumor had it that "there will be plenty of indictments" when the jury finishes its investigation.

The jury's committee of three members met behind closed doors yesterday to continue examination of records submitted during 11 days of investigation before the recess.

DIVE INJURES SWIMMER

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Fifteen-year-old Herbert Swank was in serious condition in a Columbus hospital today with injuries suffered when he dove into shallow water in the Olentangy River. He was placed in an iron lung when physicians found he was having difficulty breathing. Herbert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swank.

YOUTH CHANGES CHURCH TRYING TO EVADE ARMY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—The Fifth Corps Area judge advocate's office today continued investigation of Roger Marion Hostetler's claims to exemption from the draft as a conscientious objector.

Meanwhile, Hostetler, 23 and a native of near Urbana, still refused to don his army uniform and was in confinement at Fort Hayes.

Hostetler's local draft board at Urbana refused to recognize his plea for exemption on grounds he is a member of the Mennonite church, which is opposed to military training.

The youth, Fort Hayes officials said, had been a member of the United Brethren church and did not become a Mennonite until after he had received his draft questionnaire.

Hostetler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion H. Hostetler, Route 2, Urbana, was inducted last Friday and on arrival at Fort Hayes, to which he was assigned for preliminary training, refused to put on his uniform.

JENKINS SCORES PRICE ADJUSTER AS COMMUNIST

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Asserting there is a lack of "genuine Americans" in the National administration, Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins, Ironton Republican, today had branded Price Controller Leon Henderson a Communist.

In an address before delegates to the 48th annual meeting of the state council, Daughters of America, Jenkins did not mention Henderson by name, but said:

"In Washington today there are too many people in high places that aren't genuine Americans. I don't mean the President, of course, but there's a certain man in charge of all price controlling who has been accused by Congressmen Dies as a member of five active Communist organizations."

Jenkins asserted "we should pay attention to the words of George Washington, when he said 'Let no man be on guard tonight except an American!'"

The convention was to close today with the installation of officers. Mrs. Judith L. Dunn, Piqua, will succeed Mrs. Edna Belle Gholson, of Ironton, as state councillor.

POULTRY HOUSE BLAZE PROBED

Flames Break Out Early Friday In Center Of Building

A fire, the cause of which Fire Chief Talmer Wise said "warranted investigation," broke out in the old Riffin poultry house off South Western Avenue Friday morning about 5 o'clock.

Starting in an old refrigerator in the middle of the building the flames spread to the rafters and burned a hole through the roof before firemen placed the blaze under control. Damage was estimated by Chief Wise at $200.

Wilson Woods, night watchman for Malzo Mills, noticed smoke coming from the building a few minutes before five o'clock. He drove to the fire department and notified Chief Wise.

Firemen remained at the building for more than an hour, using two big lines to keep the flames from spreading to wool which was stored in one side of the building. The wool was not damaged.

The old poultry building stands near storage tanks owned by the Circleville Oil Company.

State fire wardens were expected to investigate the fire sometime Friday.

NEW BRIDGE TO BE ERECTED ON STATE RT. 104

Construction of a concrete slab bridge with concrete substructures is called for in a contract awarded today by the Ohio Department of Highways, the improvement to be on State Route 104, the Columbus-Chillicothe-Western road in Union Township, Ross County.

Hal G. Sours, director, said the contract was awarded to W. J. Seldensticker, Bexley, O., for $40,454. The estimated cost of the project was $42,600.

The contract calls for grading, erection of necessary drainage structures and paving with asphaltic concrete on stabilized materials. The concrete bridge will have spans of 27.5 feet, 22 feet and a roadway width of 28 feet. The bridge is over what is known as Dry Run.

According to Arthur H. Peake, chief engineer for the highway department in the division of which Ross County is a part, said the old highway alignment had two short 10 degree curves, whereas the new alignment will have two long curves of slightly more than one degree each.

A barn, a garage and a shed owned by O. B. and N. S. Atwell of Chillicothe, will be removed to make way for the improvement. New grade will .94 percent, compared with the present grade of 4 percent. Length of the project is 0.662 miles. Completion date is July 30, 1942.

American Touch There

Added to the colorful touch of turbaned Indian troops and the cocked hats of the Anzacs and the blue of the Royal Air Force, the American touch, too, is present in Singapore.

Already, trans-Pacific air service linking Singapore with the United States via fast clipper service, is functioning smoothly. Operations on the line were begun some months ago after official American statements stressed the far-reaching significance of a fast, uninterrupted link with this bastion of the Allies' Pacific defenses.

space, the plane burst into flames. Rescuers rushed up with fire-fighting apparatus, but the heat from the blazing craft kept them from approaching until a full minute after the crash.

Purvis, 51 years old, became head of the Anglo-French purchasing board in the United States on November 26, 1939. Since that time he placed hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of orders for planes and other war supplies in America.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 15 — Deaths of 22 men in an airplane accident in England, including 12 American flyers and the Rt. Hon. Arthur Purvis, head of the British Purchasing Commission in the United States, were announced today by the Royal Air Force ferry command.

The R. C. A. F. listed the following Americans among the victims:

Flying Officer E. W. Watson, Torrance, Cal.
Flight Engineer R. F. Davis, Seattle.
Capt. A. C. Earl, Huntington, W. Va.
Capt. M. B. Dilley, Kansas City.
Capt. J. J. Kerwin, Oakland, Cal.
Capt. E. B. Anding, Merrick, N. Y.
Capt. J. C. Mackey, Kansas.
Flying Officer W. L. Trimble, Ft. Worth, Tex.
Capt. M. J. Wetzel, Jamesburg, N. J.
Capt. G. Hull, Royal Oak, Mich.
Capt. E. Hamel, Braintree, Mass.
Capt. P. F. Lee Jr., Frederick, Md.

There was one English flyer killed, Capt. R. C. Stafford, of Maidenhead. The others, all Canadians, were Capt. J. J. Moffat, Toronto, and the following reserve officers: R. Coates, Dartmouth, N. S.; W. F. J. Goddard, Toronto; J. P. Culbert, Montreal; D. N. Hannant, Victoria, B. C.; J. J. MacDonald, Longueville, Que.; R. A. Duncan, Port Arthur, Ont.; and A. Tamblin, Port Arthur.

An Air Ministry announcement in London indicated that the men were enroute back to Canada to pilot bombing planes to England. It was the second such accident of this nature within the week, a similar accident taking a death toll of exactly as many men last Sunday.

Seven American flyers perished in the previous crash.

ST. LOUIS SENDS SAM NAHEM TO RED BIRD TEAM

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—The St. Louis Cardinals today sent Sam Nahem, bespectacled right handed hurler, to the Columbus Red Birds, leaders in the American Association, on option for the remainder of the season. Nahem has won five games and lost two for the Cardinals but has had little chance to take a regular turn with the National Leaguers.

It's almost unanimous. Even Big Bill Thompson has come out for aid to Britain against Hitler.

SINGAPORE — For the third time since the Far Eastern crisis arose, powerful naval, military and air reinforcements arrived in Singapore today from Australia. Apparently dispatched soon after the Japanese moved into southern French Indo-China, the reinforcements arrived just as the Japanese reportedly took up positions on the border between Indo-China and Thailand.

TOKYO — Domei, the official Japanese news agency, tonight said that informed Nipponese quarters were convinced that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have "agreed on the precise moment when America and Britain will discard passive resistance for action against Japan." Government reaction to the war aims announced following the momentous sea meeting of Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill was not disclosed.

ment concerning this country's possible entry into the war. However, the diplomatic observers point out that Churchill did most, if not all, of the "giving" in the joint declaration of policy. He agreed to renunciation of any aggrandizement either in the territorial or economic field — a pledge that the British Empire never before has made while engaged in a major war.

As this nation's capital awaited the return of President Roosevelt from his historic meeting with Churchill aboard the British warship H. M. S. Prince of Wales at Sea, Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply who attended the momentous gathering, started a series of conferences with defense officials in Washington which he hopes will lead to a swift stepping up of American aid to Britain.

EXTRADITION DENIED

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Gov. John W. Columbus Mayor Floyd Green announced, on taking office January 1, 1940, that Captain Mackey would replace S. O. Nollenberger as superintendent of Port Columbus. The plan was dropped, however, when Nollenberger said he would fight ouster proceedings.

Mackey joined the Royal Canadian Air Force in August, 1940. Although engaged in the ferrying of bombers to England, he was reported several times as attempting to gain assignment to combat duty there.

"Politically," the spokesman continued, "the eight-point program is already a dead duck, as American and British diplomatic swan-songs reveal.

"The British are frantically stressing the fact that the high seas conference was called on the initiative of President Roosevelt. These tactics have always been a sign that you want no responsibility for the consequent catastrophe.

"The whole show is a bad setback for Churchill and Roosevelt. They ballyhooed this affair with secrecy, melodramatic staging and a formulation of war aims. What came out of it? A rotten egg that has been stinking to high Heaven for a quarter of a century.

"The League of Nations is dead and gone. But in the Roosevelt-Churchill program remains its 14 points on which Europe has worn out the soles of its shoes since 1920 trying to make them work."

GERMANS MOVE TO HALT UPRISINGS IN HOLLAND

BERLIN, Aug. 15—Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, German governor of Nazi-occupied Holland, today was reported by Dienst Aus Deutschland to have established an authoritarian administration in Holland.

The German news agency said Dr. Seyss-Inquart's order abolishes all municipal autonomy and parliaments "for the sake of maintenance of order."

UKRAINE STRIFE CLOSE TO END?

the Red troops east of the Dnieper River consist only of minor garrisons, for Moscow apparently based the whole campaign of resistance on western military sectors.

Russians Move To Safer Lines

LONDON, Aug. 15—Russian forces on the Ukraine and Central Soviet fronts today were carrying out one of the largest-scale withdrawals in military history, according to a British government resume of the fighting in the East.

A vast Russian army is falling back to a new line of defense east of the Dnieper River, and to the north the defenders of Moscow also are dropping back into new positions. British information candidly revealed that the Soviets were compelled to seek new lines in an attempt to eliminate dangerous pockets in the Ukraine, where the Red dispositions now are "in a more dangerous position due to the German prongs which are pushing them eastward."

The Russians were said to be trying to withdraw in an organized mass all the armies south of Kiev to prepared lines across the Dnieper.

Leningrad Region Fights Continuing

MOSCOW, Aug. 15—Night-long fighting on four principal fronts—no mention was made of the German campaign in the Ukraine—was reported today in the Soviet noon communique.

The bulletin said: "On the night of August 14, Soviet troops fought stubbornly in the Kexholm, Staraya Russa, and Smolensk directions, and on the Estonian sector."

Thus the communique indicated that, in addition to the Central Front, the most bitter engagements were centered on three sides of Leningrad.

Kexholm, known to the Finns as Kakisalmi—is on the Karelian Isthmus north of Leningrad; Staraya Russa is southeast of the former Czarist capital, and Estonia lies to the southwest of Leningrad.

"Fierce fighting" across the entire breadth of the European continent from the Arctic to the Black Sea was announced in the earlier government communique.

400,000 Destroyed

The Soviets also gave details of the destruction of at least 400,000 German troops on the Central Front alone.

Brief lulls on the fronts from Finland to the Ukraine have been followed by a reintensification of combat, the Russians said, and Premier Josef Stalin's defense commissariat admitted the abandonment of two important centers in the heart of the Ukraine, Pervomaisk and Kirovograd.

On all other fronts, the Russians said, the Red army is holding firm.

Indicating that in some cases the Russians are continuing counter-offensives, Friday's early

SEVEN CONVICTS MAKE ESCAPES AT DALLAS, GA.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 15—Authorities today launched a search for seven prisoners who fled Georgia's "little Alcatraz," the state prison farm at Dallas, Ga., as the latest development in an investigation of conditions in the Georgia Chain-Grange system, which disclosed the death of a prisoner in a tiny "sweat hut."

The break from the Dallas camp came shortly after sensational revelations of allegedly inhuman treatment accorded prisoners at prison camps, and the announcement by a special legislative committee that C. A. Jacobson, warden of the camp at Rising Fawn, has been dismissed.

The legislative committee was to report today to the state prison commission on its current investigation, which, according to authorities, will include recommendations for abolition of the so-called "sweat-box."

9,500 WORKMEN SENT TO HOMES IN LABOR RIFT

DETROIT, Aug. 15—Following what the management termed another "unauthorized strike" at the Briggs Manufacturing Company, 9,500 workers were sent home today from two Briggs plants and the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corp.

Briggs officials, charging UAW-CIO workers with forcing a "slowdown" in production, said the Plymouth plant closed because of a lack of car bodies. Union spokesmen contended that no strike was in progress but that the company laid off the men when they objected to the "firing of two shop stewards."

Earlier it appeared that the dispute, which resulted in the layoff of 17,000 men by the same companies, was ended today when the morning shift appeared for work.

communique—covering activities Thursday—said:

"Our troops conducted fierce fighting against the enemy along the whole front from the White to the Black Sea.

"In the southern direction our troops evacuated Kirovograd and Pervomaisk."

Incomplete figures on Nazi losses published in the official press today listed one tank corps, 11 divisions, and 13 regiments as wiped out.

Twenty-one other divisions, the Russians said, lost more than half of their effectives.

Thus the losses would amount to well over 400,000—and it was pointed out that the published list does not include Nazi losses on the northern, northwestern and Bessarabian sectors.

The Russians asserted that the whole German campaign is proving a general failure, and flatly denied Nazi assertions that Odessa and Nikolaev, premier ports on the Black Sea, have been cut off by the Nazi drive.

TWO OF BRITISH NEWSMEN AT SEA WITH CHURCHILL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Disclosure that two British newspapermen were present at the high seas meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill while the American press was barred, brought a storm of criticism from journalist members of Congress.

Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., publisher of the Wadena (Minn.) Pioneer-Journal, charged that the incident "was part of the whole plot of secrecy."

"There is only one inference to be drawn from it," he declared. "President Roosevelt does not want the American people to know what transpired at that meeting."

Rep. Ludlow (D) Ind., former Washington correspondent for Indiana newspapers, and ex-president of the National Press Club, said "it is obvious if the British press was represented the American press should have been there too."

"I'd like to know why this discrimination took place," he added. "Even if the British newspapermen were not allowed to file any dispatches from the scene, their presence gave them valuable background and color through which they will be better able to inform their readers."

4H CLUB NEWS in Pickaway County

Washington Hill Climbers

The Washington Hill Climbers 4-H club met at the home of Earl Palm for its regular meeting, August 8.

The meeting was called to order by the president. Eleven members were present.

F. K. Blair, our county agent, met with us. We made plans for some of the boys to go to Ohio State University to try out for the Pickaway County judging team.

We talked about taking some of our projects to the Ohio State Fair. Our club picnic will be August 20 at Mound City Park, near Chillicothe, at which time we will have a short meeting. Refreshments were served.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, August 15

—A DAY on which there may be substantial gain and stability, probably coming where and when least expected. There are strange forces of surprise and suddenness at work, promising to accelerate enduring growth and solidity in both old and new enterprises. However, it would be as well to accept assistance from such unexpected sources rather than to seek it from customary channels. The major interests of the day, however, may be found in sentimental, artistic, inspirational or social activities, with love, beauty, romance and the finer things of life holding sway over the more sordid. A time for pleasure and culture.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of increased growth and security, arising from some sudden and unforeseen source, with the element of the novel, singular or unconventional actuating things. Strange persons and circumstances may prove more beneficial than the intervention of regulation or looked-for agencies. The social, domestic, cultural, artistic and higher emotional or creative urges may be uppermost, with pleasure and growth for the young and romantic.

A child born on this day, although having many splendid practical talents and skills, yet will lean toward the unusual romantic, artistic and inspirational expression of higher forces. It will love beauty, nature and the more exalted pleasures of life and home.

The American poet, Robert Frost, wrote for 20 years before his work became well known. His first work to attract attention was published in England in 1913.

OPEN LETTERS

TO ALL CITIZENS

FOLK: Berger Hospital in the last couple of weeks has provided relief and comfort for many persons hurt in highway and other accidents. These injured persons have many friends and relatives who are interested in their welfare. Naturally they want to know how they are progressing in the hospital. This is just a plea to all of you to refrain from telephoning the hospital unless it is really imperative that you do so. The hospital does not have sufficient employees that someone can always be at the telephone. Nurses who have other duties to perform must leave their work to answer the calls. Their efficiency is cut down when they have to do this, the time they devote to their patients is reduced, and generally speaking, the calls do much to break up the hospital's routine. The other day it was necessary for attaches to remove the receiver from the hook so that the phone's constant ringing could be stopped. Please, all of you, do not keep the telephone lines to the hospital busy all the time. Don't call the institution out of curiosity to learn how some one is getting along. Give the hospital a break, can't you? It would be appreciated, I am sure.

CIRCUITEER.

TO DEERCREEK COMMUNITY

FARMERS: The cooperative spirit which prevails in your community was proven again last week when two young robbers fled from one of the homes in your district with more than $35 in loot. In less time than it would take to tell all the details enough of you were out in the fields and on the roads with guns and clubs to make capture of the culprits certain. I am sure that your work was appreciated by the sheriff's office and by the persons who were victims of the burglars. Orchids to you for a fine job.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNCIL

GENTLEMEN: Once more the voters of Circleville have defeated a levy to raise operating money for the city's departments. Before the election, you announced to the public through the distribution of hand bills that if the levy failed it would be necessary to cut the city's police and fire protection, to reduce its staff at Berger Hospital and to shut off the city's water and street lights. If the public believed you, apparently it prefers city blackouts, and reduced police and fire protection to an increase of 1½ mills in its taxes. Both the police department and the fire department now are operating under slashed budgets and to cut them more probably could not be accomplished without seriously curtailing the city's police and fire protection. However, it seems to be the sentiment of the voters that they prefer some sort of curtailment to additional taxes. Therefore it is up to you to work out a program to enable you to operate within your budget.

CIRCUITEER.

TO MAYOR CADY

SIR: The other day you had occasion to "shoot the works" in the case of a hit-skip motorist who, when driving when under the influence of liquor, drove his automobile into a cyclist, severely injuring a youngster. I commend you for putting the law violator into a cell for quite a while to come. At the present "rate of exchange" the autoist will be in the county bastille for many, many days as a result of his fine of $400 and costs, plus a 30 day compulsory jail term. A hit-skip motorist has no place on the highway, if he can be apprehended. The state should revoke his driving license, and local police should see that he remains from behind the wheel of any automobile. It is extremely fortunate that the youngster who was injured will recover, barring complications. I wish also to commend members of the police department who did such a grand job in tracing the hit-skip car and routing its driver from his bed. They worked with speed and efficiency, and deserve congratulations from all of us.

CIRCUITEER.

TO THE LIVESTOCK CLUBS

BOYS AND GIRLS: County Agent F. K. Blair recently announced that 53 of you will enter 81 head of livestock in the State Fair junior division this year. Every year Pickaway County receives its share of laurels from the Fair and with the quality of stock owned by some of you, this year probably will be no exception. Your participation in the Fair competition does more than win honors for yourselves. It advertises Pickaway County as an agricultural community in which there is good quality livestock, and it brings into the county some of the best stock buyers in the state. Your participation in the Fair is good advertising for your club livestock show and sale which you will hold during the Pumpkin Show again this year. It promises to be one of the outstanding events of the show.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FIRE BUILDERS

FOLK: This week the fire department has received three calls resulting from grass fires which have spread out of control. In all instances, the fires have developed from unwatched burning rubbish piles or bonfires. Recent dry hot weather has made the grass in vacant lots and along fences highly flammable and only a spark is needed to spread a small fire over a considerable space. The best precaution you can use is to stay by your fire until you are sure it is out. Don't burn rubbish close to buildings or when there is a strong wind. A little precaution may save a lot of property damage.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles P. Stewart

HAVE THE German military higher-ups relegated Herr Hitler to a back seat, and started to run things according to their ideas, without much regard for his fuhreristic preferences?

That's the story that's current in Washington. The source of it isn't very clear, though the presumption is that it's a diplomatic leak from somewhere. It isn't verifiable here, either. Nevertheless, there's a bit of circumstantial evidence in support of it. On analysis it doesn't sound altogether improbable.

Everybody'll remember that, only quite recently, Jap Foreign Minister Matsuoka visited Rome and Berlin to ask Duce Mussolini and Fuehrer Hitler how Nippon could be most helpful to totalitarianism in destroying the democracies, that Adolf told him that one way would be for him to arrange a Jap-Russian pact, that Minister Matsuoka did it, that, almost immediately thereafter, Germany launched a blitzkrieg against the Soviet Union, and that this sequence of events made Minister Matsuoka look like such a sucker that Japan's Premier Ko-noye kicked him out of the Tokyo cabinet.

It wasn't easy to see why Adolf should have plotted deliberately to double-cross his Japanese caller, considering that the latter was friendly to him. The general surmise was that he really wanted the Jap-Russian pact when he suggested it; then suddenly changed his mind and went ahead with his new program entirely regardless of the fix in which he was involving Minister Matsuoka. The latest story makes better sense than that guess did.

ARMY DECIDES

The latest one's to the effect that Adolf did, indeed, want a Jap-Russian pact and didn't intend, then or thereafter, to attack the Soviets (not so soon, anyway), but that the German army command considered the time ripe for the blitz and turned it loose, telling Adolf to go chase himself.

That's some of the circumstantial evidence previously mentioned. Now for the analysis.

What class traditionally runs the German army? Why, the junkers. And the junkers are the Fatherland's military aristocracy. They never were democratic, but neither were they socialistic, like Herr Hitler and his Nazis. They were privileged nabobs. They got along with the kaiser because he was one of 'em. So was President von Hindenburg. The "von" at the front end of his name testifies to his noble rating.

But Adolf was just a measly little workingman—not a "von" or anything, a mere house painter. A marshal? Heck, no. A corporal.

And yet he wormed in somehow, and deflated junkerdom. Does it stand to reason that the junkers liked it?

He caught 'em, initially, at a time when junkerdom was in an awful state of disorganization. Probably, while he was building himself up, the junkers didn't realize what was happening to 'em. By the time they did realize it, he'd put his stunt across and there wasn't anything they could do about it until some favorable opportunity presented itself. Maybe they thought they sensed such an opportunity in connection with the present situation.

If so, why don't they tie an actual can onto Adolf or liquidate him, as well as chuck him into the background, still as a nominal, though no longer a sure-enough fuhrer?

The likeliest answer is that he continues to have, as yet, quite a rank-and-file following, and the junkers deem it unwise to be prematurely over-obvious.

As additional circumstantial evidence, does Rudolf Hess' flight to Britain signify anything? It's a little too soon to say as to that, but it may turn out to be actual testimony.

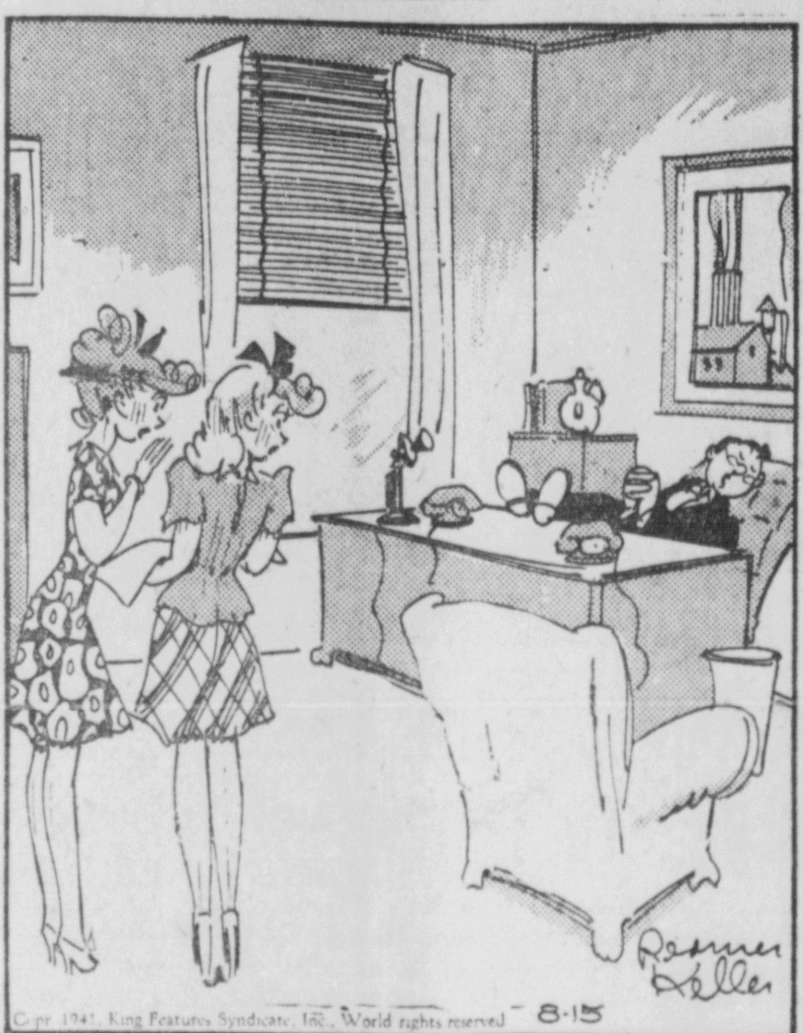

HOW ABOUT GOERING?

And then, for another rumor, it's persistently reported that Marshal Goering was demoted or forcibly retired awhile back that at least he was in disfavor with Herr Hitler, that he positively was in jail, according to some accounts. These yarns have been denied again and again, but they keep coming. Do they imply that the marshal has been developing pro-junkerism?

All these reports and circumstantial indications are pretty vague in these censurized times, but they're numerous and not entirely unconvincing.

The junkers may be as bad as Adolf, but they'd be a change, anyway.

One Foe of Mankind Is Always On Schedule

late summer and fall type of hayfever are preparing to resist their invisible but none the less malignant invader.

I want to start out the articles this year with some suggestions that have come in from readers. Here's one from Winchester, Virginia.

"I am in poor health and cannot stand the ordeal of shots for my hayfever. Besides I cannot afford to leave town or have an air-conditioned room. Is it possible to get relief from wearing nose protection as evidenced in some magazines?"

This contains an essential fallacy, because hayfever patients will tell you that their eyes are more trouble than their nose, and inasmuch as there is a connection between the eyes and the nose, and the secretion of the eyes runs down through a duct into the nose, the pollen which alights in the eyes are dissolved in the tears which on account of their salt content, make an ideal solution for pollen and flow down into the nose, causing trouble there no matter whether the nostrils are stopped up or not.

Another suggestion comes from W. W. D. of Kansas City: "With the approach of the hayfever season, may I tell you of my experience with it? My father and mother moved from Western Pennsylvania to Kansas to alleviate his asthma and her hayfever, both severe. A brother and sister with severe cases of hayfever, and my own case seems bad enough.

"With the advent of each season

I buy a bath spray which hooks on the water spout of the bath, and costs fifty to seventy-five cents. I take one of these spray baths on arising the year round, but at this season I let the spray play particularly on my throat and upper chest. In the evening before dinner, I let this cold spray play on my throat and chest, and again before going to bed, and I hardly know it is the hayfever season. That is, until some evening, I miss the pre-dinner shower or the bedtime shower, and then I suffer as much as anyone with burning eyes and running nose. That usually happens but once or twice in a season. One feels so well he thinks he can skip it without being penalized, but the pollen gets him.

"My remedy is so simple that sufferers won't believe me—but I would be interested to have you recommend this to a wide number and check the results."

I received this letter last year too late to help sufferers in that hayfever season. I have had no personal experience with the method, and cannot, therefore, give it my recommendations but since it is perfectly harmless, I am glad to give it publicity and will be glad to hear from readers what results they have obtained from it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. H. G.:—"Has a seven-year-old child a chance to outgrow a rheumatic fever caused by acute rheumatic fever?"

Answer: Acute rheumatic fever affects the heart in different ways. If the heart muscle or pericardium alone is affected, the child will probably overcome it in time. If the valves are affected, the condition is likely to be permanent, but may not progress for many years.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

THE FOLLOWING morning Diane walked into her brother's bedroom. "Remember when you were a little boy?" she softly queried. "How you always dragged Roy Reeves home with you if you thought you had a paddling awaiting?" Tate grunted puzzledly and accepted the before breakfast cigarette Diane had lighted. "Well," she went on, "I thought you might like me to go with you today when you go to see Ylena."

Tate cast his sister a look of brotherly love and appreciation. "Good old Di! Even if I do want to kill you occasionally, I can depend on you in pinches." That was the solution, a bodyguard against what squirmish he might feel in the combined presence of his fiancée and his ex-love, Francie. "Thanks, pardner."

Family brigade! That was what Ylena thought when she looked through her showroom windows the next afternoon and saw Tate, Diane and Davy getting out of Tate's car. By the time they entered she had conquered her twitching mouth and was able to greet them with poise. Davy ran ahead of his mother to greet the blond girl.

"Hello, Davy," she cried and lifted him into her arms. "What a nice surprise," she said as the two grown-ups reached her. "And how dear of you to bring Davy." She was looking at Diane now. "I hope Mr. O'Neil doesn't mind. I'm afraid he thinks I spoil children."

Rather than admit Percy did not know where Davy was, Diane said tactfully, "He doesn't mind."

Tate had a proprietary arm about Ylena's waist. She put Davy on the floor, still holding his hand. "Let's go up to my apartment and have a drink."

Diane murmured, "We don't want to interrupt your work. We just stopped in for a moment."

Nevertheless, she was lifting silver fox scarves from her chic black wool suit.

"Nonsense!" Ylena said. "I'm delighted. That's another reason I'll appreciate Francie." She called to her assistant.

The sounds of a sewing machine ceased and the swarthy-skinned girl stepped to the door of the main room. She blushed darkly when she saw Tate, but spoke in a voice, friendly, yet not without dignity, but the pollen gets him.

"My remedy is so simple that sufferers won't believe me—but I would be interested to have you recommend this to a wide number and check the results."

I received this letter last year too late to help sufferers in that hayfever season. I have had no personal experience with the method, and cannot, therefore, give it my recommendations but since it is perfectly harmless, I am glad to give it publicity and will be glad to hear from readers what results they have obtained from it.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by request. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope on account of their salt content, stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of the paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Deliberately Ylena introduced Francie to Mrs. O'Neil, then went ahead to explain, "Francie is a good friend of your brother's." Rather haughtily Diane eyed the helper in her dark skirt and work smock.

"How do you do?" she said with a brief nod.

About such a greeting, Ylena

thought, as she had received from Diane on that momentous Sunday. No matter how charming Diane might be, forever and a day Ylena knew that little festered spot would never leave her memory.

"Francie, will you please watch the front while I am upstairs?" She noticed Davy moving from the music boxes to the cupboard of carved animals. "Davy, would you like to stay here and play with the toys?"

Sharply contradicting his eager nod, Diane O'Neil said, "He'll be a bother."

"I'd love to watch him," Francie offered. "I love children."

Ylena said, "I'm sure he'll be completely safe here with Francie," and led the slightly uncomfortable pair up to her apartment.

Diane demurred still further. "I really don't know anything about Francie."

Ylena said smartly, "She's from a family of 11, Diane. I'm sure she's able to look after one child. Davy will be very happy down there, so do sit down and relax."

She smiled at Tate. "There's some excellent sherry in that cupboard."

Fully aware of the helpful background it would make for her black hair, white skin and stunning black wool suit, Diane sat down in a lemon yellow chair and looked admiringly at her hostess' living room.

The tables were a soft rose, tall, rather slim little tables, supported by copper cylinders. The fireplace was backed by deep rose brick and topped by a blue mantel. The lamp bases, carpet and two small davenport were rose; also the draperies at the side of blue Venetian blinds.

"This room is beautiful," Diane praised. "Usually pink and blue make such a sickening combination."

"The chair you're sitting in and all the native copper and trailing green vines keep it from being too insane," Ylena was talking to Diane, but her eyes were on Tate.

He walked toward them, carrying glasses of pale amber sherry on a hammered copper tray.

Diane lifted her glass. "Shall we drink to an early wedding?"

"With gusto!" Tate answered.

Ylena answered the smiles of both. Tate sat down at her feet.

"Darling," he asked in a round-about way, "how long are you going to need extra help?" Beneath his lashes, long and dark like a child's, he studied his wine.

So that was what he hoped. That she had hired Francie for the Christmas rush only. Savoring the moment of revelation, she said in a matter of fact voice, "Permanently."

He looked up shocked. "Permanently?" he echoed, and gave his sister a helpless look.

In a sweet voice she intimated, "I think Tate means he would be more comfortable if your helper were someone besides Francie."

Maliciously Ylena said to Tate, "You mean you have some other girl you'd like me to hire?" Her eyes were wide and naive.

"You know I don't mean that," he thundered. He set down his sherry glass with a crash and began an angry exploration of his pockets for cigarettes.

"Here you are, dear," Ylena handed him a full pack from the table beside her. Sootily she told him, "You mustn't worry about Francie, Tate. And you don't have to tell me you are definitely through with her. She already has told me herself and I have reason to believe she is a very honest girl."

"Then you won't get rid of her?"

"No. Why should I? She needs the work." The blond girl looked at Tate's set face, furious because he had been thwarted. She then glanced at his sister's face. It, too, was stiff with disapproval. To herself Ylena thought in cocky, tomboyish glee, "O. K. Get mad. Get ramrods up. This is my backyard and I'll rule it as I see fit."

"But, Ylena," Tate persisted, "it makes me such a darn fool—suppose I had someone working for me whom you know? Suppose," he said with venomous intimation, "I had Scott Hamilton working for me?" He turned the full glare of his dark-blue eyes upon her.

Her green eyes were just as glaring in return. "In the first place, Scott Hamilton is not an sweetheart. Furthermore," she said in supercilious pride, "I hardly think Scott Hamilton would work for you."

"Of course he wouldn't," Tate granted. "I was only trying to prove to you how it makes me feel."

"Then make a fair comparison." She flushed as Tate got up from where he was sitting at her feet and walked over to look through the blue Venetian blinds into busy Main boulevard traffic.

Diane spoke up, "I guess poor Tate is having green dragons over Scott."

"He's having a plain case of baby tantrums because he can't get his way. Men want women to be obligingly malleable in all respects, and when they aren't—poof! Insulted. Outraged dignity and all that stuff." Despite her ridicule, she went over to join Tate. When he persistently refused to look at her, she bent until her face was in front of his. Then he put both arms around him and pulled her close. Across his shoulder Ylena saw Diane's face, pleased now, mouth smiling around a cigarette.

"Darling," the blond girl said, "Francie is here for no other reason than that I felt sorry for her and she can help me. Remember that. Remember also that Scott Hamilton is merely a good friend and that I adore you."

Tate drew her still closer. Then looking past her soft blond hair he murmured rather sarcastically, "Incidentally, here comes your 'good friend' now."

Edwin C. Bachs Announce
Daughter's Wedding Plan

Circleville Girl To Become Bride Of
Martin Wikle

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Bach of 523 South Court Street announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Betty, to Mr. Martin E. Wikle of Chillicothe, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Foster Wikle of Washington C. H.

Miss Bach, who was graduated in 1939 from Circleville High School, is employed as stenographer in the office of the Ralston-Purina Co., South Court Street.

Mr. Wikle, a Washington C. H. High School graduate, is manager of a Kroger store in Chillicothe, where they will reside.

They have chosen Sunday, September 14, for their wedding day. They will be married at an open church service at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church, with the Rev. Neil Peterson officiating.

Lemon Tea

An excellent group, with guests from the various church congregations of Circleville, enjoyed the delightful Lemon Tea, Thursday, in the United Brethren community house. Tasteful arrangements of flowers made the auditorium attractive for the evening.

The program of music and readings arranged by Mrs. A. H. Morris opened with group singing and prayer by Mrs. D. B. Klingensmith. Little Phyllis Hawkes read Psalm 23 for the scripture lesson. "Airs from Scotland" was the piano duet played by Clifford L. and Miss Polly Jane Kerns; "The Church by the Side of the Road" and "The Old Rugged Cross" were the vocal selections by Mrs. A. N. Gruesser, Miss Carrie Lamasters, Mrs. Frank Hawkes and Mrs. Russell Jones, members of the Loyal Daughters' quartet; solo, "Ivory Palaces" Mrs. Iley Greeno, with Miss Gladys Noggle at the piano; readings, Mrs. Gruesser and Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. William Cady headed the refreshment committee comprised of Mrs. Ida Baughman, Mrs. Cora Coffland and Mrs. C. O. Kerns.

Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Ora Mae Harrison, a bride-elect, was honored at a surprise miscellaneous shower Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Hubert Puckett, 159 Watt Street. Miss Thelma Winner of North Court Street being joint hostess at the delightful party.

Miss Harrison, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Harrison of 524 East Franklin Street, will become the bride of Mr. Robert Sniff of 132 Mingo Street in the very near future. They will reside at Ashland, O., where Mr. Sniff is employed.

Colorful summer flowers were featured in the decorations for the affair. Miss Harrison received many lovely gifts.

Those present were the Misses Mary E. Curl, Mabel Cardiff, Edna M. Henn, Ruth Gard, Marjorie Kuhn, Mary Stinson, Mary A. Harrison, Isabelle Noggle and Mrs. Lonnie Lagore.

Dinner Club

Members of the Twenty-Six Club met Thursday at the Pick-away Country club where an excellent dinner served at 7 p. m. preceded the evening at the card tables. Summer flowers made a colorful setting for the party.

Covers were placed for Judge and Mrs. Lemuel Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noecker, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Groom, Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. J. I. Smith Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Will.

Mr. and Mrs. Will were hosts for the affair.

SWARTHOUT, KOSTELANETZ

As a sort of preview performance for her own series, Gladys Swarthout will make a guest appearance on the Andre Kostelanetz program Sunday, August 24, at 7 p. m. A week after her showing on the Kostelanetz airing, Miss Swarthout becomes star of her own series, "The Family Hour" to be heard Sundays at 4 p. m., beginning August 31.

ON CAVALCADE

Cavalcade of America Players, Monday, with Kenneth Delmer cast in the starring role of Stephen Douglas, will present a dramatization of the man who made Buchanan President, who as the most powerful Senator in Congress seemed destined to be our country's President in 1861 and yet whose unwillingness to follow the dictates of his conscience hurled him to political obscurity.

This is the true story of a great politician who, too late, realized that his carefully plotted political maneuvers had been beaten by forthrightness and simple truth.

Cavalcade producers trace the dramatic political disintegration of the lion-hearted orator Douglas and show how his devotion to the Constitution and union of the states finally overcame his lust for power. By his own hand this man cast the vote of oblivion for his career in order to pledge his strength and energy to a Union he knew must be preserved.

RADIO BRIEFS

Frank Fay, who has just been signed to start a new comedy series Saturday, October 4, is also expected to appear in a Broadway show this fall. Private Garson Kanin, "hottest" of the young movie directors, is at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and he and Fay have a script they like, in which Kanin plans to direct the comedian in on Broadway.

Their current tour of army camps may take Phil Spitalny and his girls as far as California. West coast military boys are demanding performances by them.

Having rounded out a solid year as a comedian on the Rudy Vallee programs, John Barrymore has been given another 13-week pact effective with the next broadcast. The Great Profile's brother, Lionel, is also working his way into the show, has made three appearances already, and is due for a fourth on Aug. 21.

Billy Mills quits Chicago for Hollywood this week with the cast of the "Hap Hazard" program, which will originate from the film city during the winter. Sponsor of "Fibber McGee" will continue "Hap Hazard".

Lyn Murray's "Hit Parade" choir is due to make a series of motion picture shorts with all the music arranged by the conductor-composer.

AUGUST FUR SALE ON
AT CRIST DEPT. STORE

Maury Kamens, factory representative of Greenblatts Fur Company, is in Circleville where he will conduct a two-day sale at Crist Department Store beginning Saturday. During this sale he will assist local women in selecting furs for the fall and winter season and will gladly give information concerning advance fur fashions.

He predicts mink dyed muskrat, caraculs and seals as leading favorites for the 1941-42 season, and mentions that many smartly dressed women are buying fur chubbies along with their fur coats. The 1941-42 coats are made to reveal a slimmer silhouette and armholes are cut deeper, giving the wearer more freedom and creating the illusion of narrowness across the back. Rounded shoulders, raglan and English drape sleeves will be popular with body silhouettes ranging from straight box to boxy swaggers. These new features are all incorporated in the coats displayed at Crist Department Store during this sale.

Mr. Kamens sees a profound effect on the American fur market due to the present European war, as a large percentage of furs used commercially in this country are imported. However, through large scale purchasing power Greenblatt's is still able to offer the pick of the fine skins at popular prices. Large and rapid turn-over in their many retail outlets enables them to purchase furs, linings and other materials at low prices and these savings are passed on to the consumer.

All Greenblatt coats sold by Crist Department Store are made in three factories at Fort Wayne and South Bend and Flint, Michigan. Greenblatt furs are handled exclusively in Circleville by Crist Department Store.

DEFENSE BOARD AFFECTING AGRICULTURE TO BE SET UP IN COUNTY

AAA LEADERS MEET IN CITY TO TALK TASKS

John G. Boggs, Chairman Of County Unit, To Call Farmers Together

PROGRAM TO BE FORMED

Sheets For Computation Of 1941 Payments Put Out At Confab

A Defense Board, activities of which are expected to affect every farmer in Pickaway County, will be set up within the next two weeks.

Announcement that such a board would be established in the county came Thursday afternoon during a district AAA meeting at which Dale Williams, Darke County, member of the state AAA committee, addressed county AAA chairmen and informed them that each would be made chairman of a Defense Board to be set up in his respective county. Primary purpose of the board, Williams said, would be to coordinate the county's agricultural program with the nation's defense program. The board will be concerned primarily with agricultural production and with adjustments in agricultural production. Chairman of the local Defense Board will be John G. Boggs, county AAA chairman.

Following Thursday's district meeting, held at Betz' restaurant, Chairman Boggs conferred with County Agent F. K. Blair and the two decided that the county's agricultural agencies could be called together within the next couple of weeks and a Defense Board created and placed in operation.

Agencies Invited

Agricultural agencies which will be asked to participate in the county-wide program are the AAA, the County Extension Service, the Rural Electrification Association, the Production Credit Association, the Farm Security Administration and the Home Conservation committee.

Exactly what each agency will be asked to do cannot be determined until after the meeting is held, Chairman Boggs said, and Williams gave the county chairmen no specific instructions on the functions of the board. Agricultural agencies must first determine what they can do in the way of defense before any rules are set up governing the program, he told the county chairman.

The AAA will act as the executive head for the other agencies, Boggs said, and will bear all expenses incurred by the board. Its function in the defense program probably will concern crop adjustments and limitations.

To Conserve Power

The REA may be asked to do everything possible to conserve electrical power or perhaps to extend lines in areas where electricity is needed for National Defense production. Extension agencies may be asked to suggest that farmers raise more poultry feeds, canned goods and products which can readily be turned into defense use. The farm loan agencies may be asked to extend additional credit to farmers who raise "defense crops."

Remainder of Thursday's meeting was devoted to giving instructions to local AAA officials on filling out computation sheets for AAA payments to farmers this fall who have complied with the AAA program.

An issue which came before the 46 AAA officials assembled Thursday was the growing resentment of farmers to the government's proposal to permit farmers to use their excess wheat for livestock feed.

"Farmers who have already paid their 49 cent penalties and marketed their excess wheat are just wakening to the fact that under the new proposal they will get no rebates on their penalty payments," Harry Donahoe, district AAA field representative, said.

The proposal has passed both houses of Congress and awaits the President's signature, although Donahoe said he felt certain the

GEN. BEIGHTLER SCORES SOUTHERN PRICE BOOSTS

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 15.—The practice of restaurant operators who increased their prices when the army's Thirty-seventh (Ohio) Division moved into the Lake Charles area for maneuvers is "contemptible and unpatriotic," Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler asserted today.

General Beightler said sample menus showed prices hastily altered, some hiked 33 percent. He pointed out that soldiers make $30 a month or less.

Meanwhile, the 37th Division, transferred temporarily from Camp Shelby, Miss., settled down to a new camp in a low, flat grassy area 15 miles north of Lake Charles.

President would veto the measure. Community AAA committee-men were meeting at the county AAA office Friday to receive instructions on filling out computation sheets.

Held as Nazi

ACCUSED of acting as a secret agent for the German government, August Baecker, Sr., is pictured as he appeared in the United States commissioner's office in Detroit. He was held on charges of recruiting Detroit's craftsmen for work in Germany's military industries. Baecker fell in the dragnet suddenly drawn over the motor city by federal agents seeking persons engaged in subversive activities.

THREE FUGITIVES FROM PRISON FARM HUNTED

LONDON, Aug. 15.—An intensive search was launched today for two slayers and a robber who slipped out of the London Prison Farm canning plant and escaped. Supt. W. F. Amrine identified the fugitives as Steve Bolan, 38; Robert Hileman, 37, and Lovell Horsley, 35, all of Cincinnati. Bolan and Hileman were convicted of second-degree murder and Horsley for assault to rob. Bolan entered Ohio penitentiary May 22, 1931 and would have received a parole hearing next month. He was charged with killing Vernon Hensley during a 1930 Christmas eve argument. Hileman was convicted of the slaying of Virginia Fitzgerald, 23, May 23, 1933.

AMANDA RAIL STATION TO DO STOUTSVILLE BUSINESS

Authorization to change its freight station at Stoutsville from agency to non-agency has been granted the Pennsylvania Railroad by the state Utilities Commission. Business will be handled at Amanda.

After nearly half a century of business, the railroad early this summer petitioned the Utilities Commission to abandon the station at Stoutsville because of the lack of business.

Before the trucking business came into being, the Stoutsville station was noted for its livestock and grain shipping.

Peter Encourages Suffering Christians

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 17 is I Peter 4:12-19; 5:6-11, the Golden Text being I Peter 4:16, "If a man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God in this name.")

AT THE time St. Peter wrote his two epistles, a great persecution of the Christians was going on. The very name of Christian applied to a man was likely to get him into trouble with the authorities. Christians were accused of being evil doers and of preaching revolutionary doctrines. Nero in Rome had set the example of putting them to death, and in the provinces there were many who were only too willing to follow his example. Paul, Aquila and Luke were already martyred, and followers of Christ had few to whom they could turn to strengthen their faith and give them comfort in their sufferings. Peter himself, according to report, was later crucified, but insisted that he be put to death head downward, as he felt he was not worthy to die in the position in which his Master, Jesus, had perished.

So while he was still among them, Peter undertook to speak words of comfort and to strengthen the hearts and wills of his fellow Christians.

"Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial among you, which cometh upon you to prove you, as though a strange thing happened to you," he writes. Peter himself knew how weak his man, for had he not denied his Lord three times when Jesus most needed him, and repented in tears and humility?

Martyrs Should Rejoice

Instead of wondering why such grief and suffering had come upon them, they should rejoice because they were also partakers of Christ's sufferings. Such persecution would "prove them," show that they were true followers of their Master and not afraid to die, if need be, for the cause they believed in.

"If ye are reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are ye, because the spirit of glory and the spirit of God resteth on you."

Have you ever been razed and insulted by schoolmates or friends because you wouldn't do as they wanted you to, thinking it not right? If you have, you know a very little about the feelings of these poor men and women, who, because they dared stand by their convictions, were in danger of being tortured and put to death. You were in no danger of losing your life because you took a stand for what you believed was right; but you can appreciate their terror and unhappiness in small measure. There are many in the world today who also are suffering for their convictions and going to their death therefore, sad to relate. They need our sympathy.

TWO AUTOS HIT AT INTERSECTION IN EARLY MORN

Four brothers from Dayton, who told police officers they were on their way to Nelsonville to the death bed of their father, escaped injury Friday morning about 5:30 when their car was struck broadside at Court and Mound Streets by a Columbus motorist whose car skidded 48 feet in an attempt to avoid a collision.

Driver of the Dayton car was Wendell Carr, 40, 845 Vermont Avenue, and riding with him were his brothers Guy, Lloyd and Chester. Carr was traveling east on Mound Street and failed to observe the stop sign at Court, Patrolman Alva Shasteen said.

The Columbus car, driven by Don S. Seelye, 462 Garden Heights, was going north on Court, hit the Dayton auto in the side, rolling it over in the street.

No one was injured and the Carr brothers crawled out through a window. Both sides of the Dayton auto were damaged.

Griffith and Martin

"Where Floorcovering is a Specialty"

Eight years ago today Griffith and Martin, the floor-covering store, came into being.

Established by two local men, George Griffith and Emerson Martin with a thorough knowledge of floor-covering and a faith that a store which carried high grade products of the best quality, fairly priced, would be a success in Pickaway County. They believed that those things were what the people wanted. They established such a store and the response was immediate. The people of Pickaway County gave immediate assurance by their purchases that such a store filled their needs.

The same high quality of merchandise, materials and high grade workmanship has been maintained through the years and the best has been stocked in linoleums, rugs, paints, blinds, wallpaper, etc.

Today the eighth year has been completed and Griffith and Martin wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your support of their store and assure you that they will continue along the same lines and with the same merchandise for years to come . . .
